FOUR GUNMEN STAGE $3850 R. I. HOLDUP

Cranston, R. I., June 23 — Four armed men, including two with shotguns, today held up and slugged the paymaster of the Standard Machine Company in the yard of the plant and escaped with $3850.

The quartet missed $1200 which was in another package.

The bandits were hiding inside the yard in Elmwood avenue when the paymaster, William B. Kittredge of Alumni avenue, Providence, drove in.

When the paymaster's car stopped, the four rushed up, two with revolvers and two with shotguns, and surrounded the machine.

SLUGGED WITH GUN

Before Kittredge could make any entry, one of the bandits slugged him on the head with the butt of the shotgun. Another grabbed the bag containing the money as it fell from Kittredge's grasp and the four raced out of the yard.

Two cars were waiting outside the yard for the bandits. There were drivers in each car and the motors were running.

Employes of the machine company who saw the bandits flee out of the yard and make their getaway said both autos had Massachusetts registration plates.

CAR FOUND ABANDONED

Several employes ran after the bandits, but were easily outdistanced.

One of the bandit cars was found abandoned about 10 minutes later in Western Promenade street, at the Cranston-Providence city line. The car was on a dirt shoulder far from any residences or other buildings.

The numbers on the car were Massachusetts 8614P and the plates were revealed as having been stolen two weeks ago from Samuel Andelman, an automobile dealer, on River street, Cambridge.

U. S. to Arrest Six Strike Pickets for Stopping Mails

Washington, June 23 (AP)—Attorney-General Cummings directed today he had ordered the arrest of six pickets for allegedly interfering with United States mail trucks at Republic Steel plants at Youngstown and Warren, O.

Cummings said he instructed United States Attorney Emerick H. Freed in Cleveland to "ascertain who interfered with the mail trucks" and issue warrants.

Warrants, he said, were issued this morning against six persons, three at Youngstown and three at Warren.

Asked if the persons arrested were pickets Cummings said they were but added, "it doesn't make the slightest difference to me who they are."

"Obstructing the mails is an interference that cannot be tolerated for a moment," Cummings said. "All mail that the postoffice department sees fit to be delivered must be delivered. The whole power of the government is behind that proposition."

The attorney-general acted, he said, under a criminal law providing a maximum penalty of $100 and six months imprisonment, or both.

Plan Relief Work March on Capital

Milwaukee, Wis., June 23 (AP)—David Lasser, president of the Workers' Alliance of America, said the group, in convention here today, contemplated a nation-wide march on Washington if President Roosevelt did not cancel a layoff of 427,000 relief workers proposed for July 15.

Nazi Fleet Speeds To Spain For Sea 'Warning'

Rome, June 23 (INS)—With more than a dozen vessels of Germany's new navy steaming toward Spanish waters, Germany has requested Italy to join in a monster demonstration off Valencia to cow the Loyalists.

This was authoritatively stated today, with indications that Italy would accept, as the two Fascist countries withdrew from the neutral Spanish sea patrol.

Italian naval squadrons in Spanish seas have already been reinforced, it was said on high authority. More ships could easily dash to Spain, and fresh Italian troops are ready to leave Italy for the war-torn country at a moment's notice.

Italy will reply to the German request tonight.

'LOUIS GREAT BOXER,' BRADDOCK WRITES

By JAMES J. BRADDOCK

Ex-Heavyweight Champion of the World

(Copyright, 1937, by King Features Synd.)

Chicago, June 23—That "ex." I have to put beside a title I once held and cherished is one of the toughest words I've ever written or said.

I didn't, in fact, come to a full realization of just what happened to me when Joe Louis knocked me out in the eighth round until I started to review the fight and suddenly knew that the line, "Jim Braddock, Heavyweight Champion of the World," no longer applied and that I was just another in the legion of those who have gone over the hill to oblivion—and who won't be back.

I made my stand in the ring last night and, having failed, there is hardly anything I can say now except to acknowledge that Louis is a great fighter. He had to be, and I'm not being conceited in saying that.

Believe me, I was set for the fight of my career—and I made it. The only trouble was that it wasn't enough. This Louis was just too good.

They told me, for instance, that he couldn't take a punch. Well, if I could laugh now, I would. The Chicago, June 23—Bomber Joe Louis, Detroit Negro who was today heavyweight champion of the world as a result of a knockout over Jimmy Braddock of New Jersey in the eighth round of their bout at Comiskey Park, will meet either Max Schmeling or Tommy Farr of England in a September bout.

Joe Jacobs, acting for Schmeling, has already come to terms with Mike Jacobs of the Twentieth Century Club. It was felt that a bout between Louis and Schmeling, if staged in New York city, will draw $1,500,000.

The fact the New York Garden did not attach the name of Jimmy Braddock in any manner to before that the Garden will receive no share of the profits of a Louis-Schmeling bout if it is held.

Schmeling is under contract to box for the Garden.

The Louis management says it is agreeable to sign the Schmeling bout, that it also has Tommy Farr under consideration.

Farr recently gained ring fame when he defeated Baer in England.

MORE U. S. LABOR AIDS RUSH TO OHIO; JAILS OVERFLOW

BULLETIN

Warren, O., June 23 (AP)—CIO leaders today sent out emergency calls to 28 union locals, summoning them to CIO headquarters for a conference to map counter-strategy against evacuation of workers from the Republic Steel plant under the protection of national guardsmen.

By the Associated Press

Cleveland, June 23—President Roosevelt's federal mediation board renewed efforts today to arrange a settlement of the Great Lakes steel strike.

While strike-paralyzed mill cities in Ohio's Mahoning Valley watched hopefully, under surveillance of 4400 national guard troopers, Charles P. Taft, II, Federal chairman, arranged conferences with executives of the four strike-involved independent steel companies—Republic, Bethlehem, Inland Steel and Youngstown Sheet & Tube.

President Roosevelt himself was keeping in close telephonic communication with principals in the controversy, he disclosed at a White House press conference.

PROBE LEWIS' CHARGES

Four representatives of the national labor relations board entered the picture today, and a fifth investigator was on his way from Washington.

Mark Lauter, member of the labor relations board's legal staff, said the group would proceed with "all haste" to gather data on the charges filed June 18 by John L. Lewis' CIO against the steel companies.

The charges included alleged discrimination in the discharge of union employes, coercion through shutdown of a Canton, O., plant of Republic Steel, use of "armed thugs and gunmen," and alleged "collusion" with Sheriff Ralph E. Elser of Youngstown to interfere with picketing.

PLAN GIRDLER GRILL

While the federal mediators pushed efforts for peace in Cleveland, Tom Girdler, president of Republic Steel, and CIO chairman Lewis both were in Washington.

Senator Bridges, Republican, of New Hampshire, said he would ask Girdler whether the corporation has made an oral agreement with steel union representatives.

Girdler, along with executives of the three other independent steel companies, has refused point-blank to sign written agreements with the CIO, thus keeping the multi-million dollar controversy in a state of deadlock.

Girdler was summoned to tell his side of the steel strike to the Senate committee tomorrow in reply to charges made last week by Philip Murray, head of the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee.

Bridges said he had been informed that Republic Steel never had reached any pact with the union.

"In view of testimony by C. I. O. spokesmen," he said, "that the only point at issue in the strike is refusal to sign an agreement already reached, I believe this should be cleared up."

At Johnstown, Pa., still under martial law declared by Governor George H. Earle, the city's business leaders expressed alarm at the prospect of losing the community's chief income through the shutdown of Bethlehem Steel's giant Cambria works.

Lawrence Campbell, chairman of the citizens' committee, insisted the strike had been broken before martial law was declared and said the mills would be operating at capacity today if the governor had not stepped in.

PAYLESS PAY DAYS

In New York, General Hugh S. Johnson, former NRA administrator, assailed as "preposterous" the position taken by some steel companies in expressing willingness to bargain with labor unions but refusing to sign contracts.

With the cost estimated at $12,000,000 to date, payless days and smokeless smoke stacks, serious things for worker and employer alike, stood forth today as silent but earnest pleaders for settlement of the 28-day-old steel strike.

It was payday at Bethlehem Steel's Cambria works in Johnstown, Pa., but there was no such payroll today as when the big mills were running at their 15,000-men capacity; for the plant is closed by martial law, and pay due workers is comparatively small.

What checks there are, said a company representative, will be mailed during the week.

Much more serious, however, is the situation at Youngstown, O., where 25,000 men have earned no wages since May 26; and in the Chicago area, where Inland Steel's 13,000 workers can look forward to no more money until smoke pours again from the stacks.

President Roosevelt's three mediators, aware of the great loss the strike is entailing each day that it continues—losses in pay, in profits and in the extraordinary policing measures which have brought state troops out in Michigan, Pennsylvania and Ohio—sought today to find a thread of compromise.

They called before them again the heads of the four steel corporations against whom John L. Lewis' CIO is striking—Republic Steel, Inland Steel, Youngstown Steel & Tube, and Bethlehem Steel.

"There is hope," said Charles P. Taft II, chairman of the mediation board. "If there wasn't, I'd go home."

CIO leaders echoed his hopefulness with even greater enthusiasm, topped with Lewis' comment, as he returned to Washington:

"We're going to win," and with the statement of other strike leaders that "we'll have signed contracts with 'em, almost any day now."

There has been no sign of disorder in the Mahoning Valley since troops began pouring in early yesterday morning in response to the governor's action, taken to prevent violence and bloodshed.

Police and county authorities had arrested 177 persons up to early today on charges of suspicion or of carrying concealed weapons.

The city jail overflowed last night, and many prisoners had to be taken to the county jail.

The CIO, through John Stevenson, organizer, complained of the "wholesale arrests."

"If they don't quit picking up men like this," he said, "we're going to increase our picket lines."

Stevenson charged that the prisoners are being held incommunicado. He had complained to military authorities, he added, against the special police stationed "at every street corner," and asked to have them disbanded.

The four Youngstown plants have been closed since the strike began, but a check today showed Republic plants in Warren, Niles and Canton operating at about one-third capacity.

There are between 2300 and 2400 men at work in the Warren plant, and 500 at Niles. These are the plants affected by the injunction of Common Pleas Judge Lynn Griffith under which CIO pickets were ordered to disarm and cease interfering with the orderly movement of workers, trucks and trains into and out of the plants.

Gov. Daley, in an order to National Guardsmen last night, charged them to lend their services to "carry out the terms of the court order granting the right of the workers of those mills to go to and from their homes without molestation."

Troops extended their jurisdiction today to the Canton-Massillon area. Approximately 2300 men are at work in Republic's alloy steel division at Canton.

The plea for troops was sent to Davey by Chairman Taft of the Federal Board of Mediators.

5 Railway Brotherhoods To Take Vote on Strike

Chicago, June 23 (AP)—The five operating railroad brotherhoods, resolved to force negotiations on pending wage increase demands, called upon 300,000 members today to cast strike votes within 30 days.

Various union officials emphasized the primary objective of the move was to pave the way for intervention by the federal railway board.

The ballots will be mailed to members within a week and the vote will be canvassed here the week of July 26.

CIO and Auto Union Probe 'Outlaw' Strikes

Detroit, June 23 (AP) — The United Automobile Workers of America and its parent Committee for Industrial Organization plunged into an investigation of unauthorized automobile strikes today.

The inquiry, secret, began at Flint, Mich., and concerned stoppages of work in General Motors plants there since the UAWA and the corporation signed an agreement March 12 following a prolonged strike.

Workers Whisked Out Of Warren, Pa., Plant

Warren, O., June 23 (AP)—Several hundred men, some pale and unshaven, others spruce appearing, were whisked out of the strike-besieged plant of the Republic Steel Corporation today where they had worked and lived since May 26.

Gaping, orderly crowds watched the evacuation. There were no disorders.

Workers in the plant, numbering between 2000 and 2500 had been kept there by picket lines.

Boston Woman Chicago Mystery

Chicago, June 23 (AP)—A well-dressed woman, about 70, who told police she was Mrs. Catherine Donnelly and formerly lived at 115 Beacon stret, Boston, was found wandering along a street here early today. Police said she was unable to tell when she had come here or with whom she was staying.

She is five feet tall, weighs about 125 pounds and wore a long black gown, black shoes and dark hose.

The address given in Chicago by Mrs. Catherine Donnelly is the class room of the Erskine school. Officials of the school and nearby residents said they do not know a Mrs. Catherine Donnelly. The woman is not listed in the city directory.

BOSTON MARKETMEN THREATEN WALKOUT

A food shortage was feared in Boston today as more than 700 marketmen threatened to walk out unless their demands for wage increases are met in 24 hours.

The market workers demands came on the heels of a tie-up that has already crippled the movement of wool and coal supplies along the Atlantic seaboard.

Henry Hershon, business agent of the Fruit and Vegetable Distributors Union, Local 20588, affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, issued the wage ultimatum.

Hershon declared that the walkout of marketmen would be followed by teamsters and chauffeurs.

As tens of thousands of wool bags littered Boston piers a new effort to settle a strike involving 800 members of the Boston Wool Handlers' Union was made during a meeting between six warehouse operators, union agents and state officials.

Meanwhile the coal industry was in the throes of a tie-up that involved 50 idle colliers in Atlantic ports, seven of which were docked without crews in Boston harbor today.

Steamship companies announced that union recognition had been granted but the ship movement awaited settlement of wage demands.

A steamship plying between Boston and Philadelphia, loaded with wool, was forced to return to the latter port without unloading her cargo when longshoremen on South Boston docks voted to strike in sympathy with the wool handlers.

Operators of Pier 46, Mystic Docks, today announced that unless the situation is relieved before Saturday the pier will be closed to further freight.

A survey of the New England mills today showed no ill effects, the factories operating for the present on big reserve supplies.

Quincy police meanwhile assigned guards at gasolene stations which had operated during the drivers' walk-out. Vandalism was reported at 16 of these stations although most of the drivers were back at work today pending announcement of settlement terms.

WILFRED S. TUFTS LAST RITES HELD

Funeral services were held today from Second Congregational Church, Newton, for Wilfred S. Tufts, 61, long a member of the board of directors of the Jordan Marsh Company.

Born in St. John, N. B., Tufts came to Boston as a boy. He went to work for Jordan Marsh Company in 1894, remaining 43 years in the employ of the firm.

A resident of Dorchester until 15 years ago, Tufts then moved to his late home in Highland street, West Newton.

He kept a summer place, "The Moors," at Falmouth, where he and his family were prominent in social affairs.

Tufts was a member of Dalhousie Lodge of Masons, the Algonquin Club, the Beacon Society and Braeburn Country Club.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. John S. Lockwood of Philadelphia and Miss Marion Tufts of West Newton; by four sisters, Mrs. Truman Webb of St. John; Mrs. Malcolm Gillis of Rochester, N. Y.; Mrs. Frederick Sleeth of Hartford, Ct., and Miss Florence Tufts of Waltham; also by three brothers Maurice, Ellsworth and Clifford Tufts, all of St. John.

South Boston Folk Win Oil Farm Fight

South Boston residents protesting establishment of an alleged "oil farm" in East First street, along the waterfront, today won their fight when the street commission rejected the application of the Stetson Fuel Company.

The company had sought permission to erect four tanks with a storage capacity of 1,764,000 gallons. Salvatore Guaragna, leader in civic and fraternal affairs in that district, and the Rev. Patrick J. Waters, pastor of St. Brigid's Church, South Boston, led the protest.

Parker Plot Case Given to Jury

Newark, N. J., June 23 (AP)—The Ellis H. Parker conspiracy case—sequel to the Lindbergh kidnaping—was given to a federal court jury of eight women and four men today.

Parker, 65-year-old chief of Burlington County detectives, and his son, Ellis, Jr., 26, were accused of conspiring to abduct Paul H. Wendel, a former Trenton lawyer, and force from him by torture a false confession to the Lindbergh kidnaping.

35 Years Wed, Andover Pair in Cross Suits

Lawrence, June 23—Although she is but five feet one and weighs 115 pounds, she put her six-foot, 200-pound husband out of the house on Fathers' Day, Mrs. Mary Harmon, 60, of North Andover, testified in probate court today in seeking separate support.

The husband, George D. Harmon, also 60, a mill worker but a former member of the North Andover fire department, seeks a divorce, likewise on the grounds of cruel and abusive treatment.

In his testimony he testified that while living with her he was constantly in fear of his life, as she had threatened to poison or shoot him. When he retired at night, he said, he wedged a chair under his bedroom door knob, so it could not be opened from the outside.

The couple have been married 35 years. The fighting started only three weeks after the marriage, Harmon testified.

Mrs. Harmon testified that he hurled things at her, drank constantly and gave her only $4 or $5 a week on which to run the house.

Their son, Richard, testifying for the mother, said he had seen his father hurl a cup of custard across the dining room table at Mrs. Harman, and then follow up with a glass of water.

Judge Dow took both petitions under advisement.

Rule Against CIO In Contract Fight

Newark, N. J., June 23 (AP)—Vice Chancellor Alfred A. Stein ruled today that "an employer cannot be compelled under existing law to enter into a contract with any union." He continued a preliminary injunction restraining the Retail Clerk's Union, Newark local, from picketing or interfering with three Newark stores, which said they had entered into a contract with another union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

The court said the defendant union represented itself as having been affiliated with the A. F. of L. Since the start of the suit, the court said, the defendant union had become affiliated with the CIO.

GOV. EARLE BOOMS ROOSEVELT IN 1940

Harrisburg, Pa., June 23 (AP)—Governor George H. Earle came out "unqualifiedly and finally" today for the re-election of President Roosevelt in 1940.

"I am for Franklin Roosevelt for President in 1940 unqualifiedly and finally," said Earle who has been mentioned as a possible candidate for the presidency.

"I've got a lot of work to do here in Pennsylvania and I'm getting weary of the questions about my candidacy in 1940.

"Therefore I want my position definitely understood. There are many leaders of intelligence and honesty in the Democratic party.

"There are, however, no men in the Democratic party or any other party who reach knee-high in stature mentally and morally to Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"Between the third term precedent and the welfare of the country can any patriotic citizen hesitate as to what course he will take? I am for Franklin D. Roosevelt for President in 1940 unqualifiedly and finally."

'Scram' in His Tongue

Kansas City, June 23 (AP)—Barney Mahoney, traffic patrolman, prides himself on being able to handle all situations. Seeing a motorist making a forbidden left turn, he halted the man and started a lecture.

"No speek English," the motorist said when Mahoney stopped for breath. The man then handed the officer a small book entitled "English into Spanish." A 15-minute study revealed nothing on traffic rules.

Finally Mahoney resorted to a international word:

"Vamoose," he shouted.

The driver vamoosed—with a smile.

Sen. Norris Taken To Naval Hospital

Washington, June 23 (AP)—Senator Norris (Ind., Neb.) went to the Naval Hospital today for treatment of what was called "a severe gastro-intestinal upset" which forced him to leave a Senate committee meeting yesterday.

His office staff said that the 75-year-old senator passed "a fairly comfortable night."

New York, June 23 (INS)—G-men and state troopers today hunted in a vacant house a quarter mile from the Parsons estate, near Stony Brook, L. I., for a trace of missing Alice Parsons. No clue was found.

London Trolleys Crash, 21 Injured

London, June 23 (AP)—A collision of street cars in central London today injured 21 persons, eight of whom were taken to hospitals. Most of the injured were factory and office workers.

Fair and Warmer On Heels of Rain

Fair and warmer weather was promised today following a tropical storm that drenched Boston with a two-inch downfall and caused two deaths.

Greater Boston streets were flooded by two showers during the storm, causing traffic tie-ups in downtown business sections.

Sewers were overtaxed in Greater Boston. In Charles street extra police were needed to clear traffic that crippled Park square for almost an hour.

Up to 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning .90 inches of rain had fallen on Boston during the first 23 days of June. Between that time and this morning .79 inches fell.

Connie Morrow Weds Late Sister's Husband

QUIET BRIDAL HELD IN MAINE SUMMER HOME

Constance Cutter Morrow, 23, daughter of the late Senator Dwight W. Morrow and sister-in-law of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, today was the bride of Aubrey Niel Morgan, nineteen of her late sister, Elisabeth.

The former Smith College student and Morgan were married in a surprise ceremony in North Haven, Me., at the Morrow summer home on Deacon Brown's Point.

Arrangements for the wedding of Mrs. Anne Lindbergh's sister to the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Llewellyn Morgan of Llandaff, Wales, were made quietly, and it was not until after the marriage was performed that news was given out.

Only members of the immediate family attended the service, which was read by the Rev. Henry F. Hunt, pastor of the North Haven Baptist Church.

HOME FROM ENGLAND

The senator's widow, Constance and Morgan returned from England, where Mrs. Morrow was a visitor during the recent birth of another son to Mrs. Lindbergh.

Morgan was wed to Elisabeth Morrow, eldest daughter of the senator, in 1932. She died two years later following an operation in Pasadena, Cal.

Yesterday's wedding was a complete surprise to friends of the Morrows in Massachusetts and particularly to former classmates of Constance at Smith College.

After her graduation two years ago the new Mrs. Morgan had interested herself in dramatics and those close to her were given no indication of her matrimonial plans.

SMITH CAREER BRILLIANT

Her career at Smith was brilliant. She stood second in scholastic standing during her freshman year, was elected president of the sophomore class and was named chairman of the judicial board in her junior year.

It was while she attended Smith that Colonel Lindbergh's baby son was kidnaped and later found murdered. For several weeks she was guarded closely as police feared a repetition of a $50,000 kidnap threat she received at 15 when she was a student at Milton Academy.

Following her graduation she made her debut in the theater, playing for six weeks with the Brattleboro, Vt., Summer Theater and later with the Kalamazoo, Mich., Civic Players.

When the Lindberghs went to Wales in 1935, Constance and her mother followed.

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Morrow's brother, Dwight Whitney Morrow, Jr., to Miss Margot Loines, New York debutante, was made yesterday by the bride-to-be's mother, Mrs. Russell Hillard Loines, from the family summer home on Martha's Vineyard.

Scalp Clue To Poison Killing

Grim Foxboro Find Starts Search

Foxboro, June 23—Traces of arsenic in a woman's scalp found here led District Attorney Edmund H. Dewing of Norfolk county to order a thorough investigation today on the chance that there has been a poison murder.

The district attorney told Police Chief Joseph Dean to question everyone who might have information shedding some light on the mystery.

Reports of the traces of the deadly arsenic were made by George Bolling, pathologist for the City of Brockton, to whom the gruesome find was given for analysis.

CERTAIN OF MURDER

Assistant District Attorney George Arbuckle of Quincy, who has been probing the mystery on his own account, notified Dewing that he intended to co-operate with Chief Dean in the hope of getting a solution to the queer case.

"It is most puzzling," Assistant District Attorney Arbuckle said. "The ears on the scalp are in fact, both of them—regardless of other reports. The woman was apparently about 40 years of age.

"The only report authorities in this county have of a girl being missing is of a youngster, not more than 20. She may have gone anywhere. I am certain that this scalp is not hers."

"LOOKS LIKE MURDER"

"It certainly looks like murder," Chief Dean asserted, although he admitted he was without any definite clue.

"Someone, at some time, 'got the works,'" he said. "We received information about a certain person who lived at one time in the house where the scalp was found.

"This information points to a solution of the find. I am going out of town to check it."

Chemist Bolling has not yet completed his analysis, but he has reported to Chief Dean that there were salts as well as arsenic in the scalp, and while arsenic was in the formula for the preservative, formaldehyde, this chemical has not been used for such purposes for years.

Windsor, 43, Celebrates With Wally

Learns of New Snub By British Press

St. Wolfgang, Austria, June 23—The honeymooning Duke of Windsor celebrated his 43d birthday quietly with his American-born duchess at the Castle Wasserleonburg here today, and learned of a new snub by his native Britain.

A year ago when he reigned as Edward VIII, all London turned out to celebrate with colorful pomp and pageantry, the 42d anniversary of his birth.

Today the occasion was curtly disposed of with a single line, far down in the social columns of British papers.

"The Duke of Windsor is 43 today."

Reportedly ignoring the slight and thankful "at long last" for a bit of privacy, the duke prepared to attend a quiet party arranged in his honor by the Duchess Wally.

Yesterday the duchess hurried to Vienna for a brief shopping trip, chatted amiably with a former Baltimore woman who interviewed herself in the store and appeared to enjoy recalling old times in her native city.

THE BRIGHTER SIDE

By DAMON RUNYON

(Copyright, 1937, International Features Service, Inc., International Copyright and all other rights reserved.)

Chicago, June 23—To a business man, the promotion of big prize fight would be a very poor business. A business man would consider it no wonder than playing the roulette wheel.

Damon Runyon

Indeed, the promoter of a big prize fight must be ultimately a gambler. He must be willing to gamble hundreds of thousands of dollars against the uncertainties of life, and human accident, and ailment, and even against the elements, and curiously enough, two of the most successful promoters of the big prize fights in American history were professional gamblers.

One was George Lewis Rickard, called "Tex." The other was a chap named Dan Stuart. By successful, we mean from the financial standpoint. Rickard was at one time a millionaire, and still had some money left when he died in Florida. Stuart got rich by buying in all the rights to the movies on his Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight at Carson City, the first commercial fight movies ever attempted.

CALIFORNIA'S "SUNNY JIM"

Another successful promoter of his time was James Coffroth of California, called "Sunny Jim." He is a wealthy man, who lives in some splendor at San Diego, but "Sunny Jim" did not become wealthy as a promoter of big prize fights. He made his money out of the old racetrack and gambling concessions at Tia Juana in Mexico.

Rickard, for some years, was more or less a lone hand in his promotion of big prizefights. He usually had what is known as a "bankroll man," or backer, a character quite essential to promoters of big prizefights, but Rickard's "bankroll man" rarely figured in the news.

At the time of what was perhaps his most profitable promotion, the Dempsey-Carpentier fight, Rickard had standing behind him the portly figure of the late John Ringling, of circus fame. John was rarely mentioned as among those present, but he had his bankroll ready in the event anything went wrong with the big prizefight.

WENT AFTER NEW GARDEN

Then Rickard conceived the idea of a new Madison Square Garden in New York, and he interested a coterie of Wall Street business men in the matter, to his subsequent regret. These business men formed a corporation, and Rickard got his new Garden, all right, and some little stock, and a salary of $30,000 a year, and it was a happy picture for him except for one thing. He lost much of his promotional independence.

Rickard was a fellow who liked to run his business in his own way, accounting to nobody behind him. He considered that this was not altogether feasible after he got a board of directors of business men, who understood little of the prize fight business. In the promotion of a big prize fight there are certain details that the promoter considers essential, but which are not easily explainable to business men, who nevertheless must have explanations.

The profit returns from a big prize fight are usually so completely out of proportion to the investment and the risk that a business man is slightly puzzled.

HUGE TAKE, SMALL PROFIT

For instance, the gross take of the second Tunney-Dempsey enterprise, right here in Chicago, was close to $2,000,000, and the profit is said to have been around $400,000, which some of Rickard's business men associates thought too little.

The prize fighters and the promotion expense took most of the money, and what those who understood the promotion of big fights thought Rickard did very well, some of the business men were inclined to be a trifle critical.

They discovered another side to the prize fighting business, however, when Rickard's presentation of the Tunney-Heeney affair in New York upwards of $2,000,000. The business men then realized that any profit whatever to a big prize fight was not to be sneezed at.

MIKE JACOBS LONE WOLF

The prototype of the lone-hand Rickard of years ago developed some three or four years back in the person of Mike Jacobs, a New York ticket broker, who had been associated more or less with Rickard, and who imitates a lot of the original Rickard methods. It is this Mike Jacobs who is said to have been promoting the big prize fights here, only thinly concealed behind a local promoter.

Jacobs is even more of a lone-hand than Rickard. He has no "bank roll man" behind him. He accumulated considerable money in the ticket business, and finances his ventures himself. He has no board of directors to report to, and for that reason can take chances that would make a board of directors shudder in unison.

It is understood that to one principal in the big prize fight in Chicago Jacobs is giving fifty cents of every dollar taken in, less the government and state taxes. That alone was a deal that would have alarmed any astute business man. Out of the remaining fifty cents Jacobs has to pay the other principal, and his overhead, and on that basis if he winds up with any considerable profit he must be accounted a species of magician.

But business is the fancy magic that has so many chances to miss as a big prize fight.

6 TAX EVADERS' PLANS FAILED, PROBE TOLD

Washington, June 23 (INS)—The six New Yorkers who organized a Bahamas insurance firm in order to manipulate deductions on their income tax returns didn't get away with it.

Internal revenue officials, testifying again today at the joint congressional tax evasion investigation, declared they had consistently refused to allow deductions claimed by Richard E. Dwight, Dr. Winfield Ayres, Lawrence Marx, Henry W. Lowe, Jacob W. Schwab and George Thonas. Dr. Dwight's case he has already offered to settle for more than a quarter of a million dollars.

LONG DELAY QUERIED

Committee members questioned Mason B. Leming, assistant general counsel of the revenue bureau, as to why the bureau was so tardy in catching up with the insurance-evasion scheme, by which the six took out large policies, borrowed heavily on them and then charged off the interest.

Senator Harrison, (D.) Mississippi, questioned Leming closely on the steps taken by the bureau to collect $542,000 in taxes alleged to have been avoided through payment of this "interest."

Rep. Cooper, (D.) Tennessee, asked Under-Secretary of Treasury Roswell Magill if the department knew of any other company similar to the Bahamas company.

DEVICE IS UNIQUE

"We do not know of any other insurance company which is obviously without assets and is set up to employ a tax-dodging device," replied Magill. "However, there have been other taxpayers who have employed this device, but whose cases we have not had sufficient personnel to prepare."

Commissioner of Internal Revenue Guy T. Helvering, answering questions, said that of 6,000,000 tax returns made last year, 500,000 were investigated.

Senator Walsh (D) Massachusetts, questioned Deputy Commissioner Charles Russell closely on the time taken to determine whether a taxpayer's return was defective. Russell said the time has recently been cut from two years to nine months.

Scarcity of Snow Halts Explorers

Unseasonably warm weather has halted the expedition of Bradford Washburn, Cambridge explorer, and his party in the Yukon territory, according to word received here today.

Attempting to climb hitherto unexplored Mt. Lucania, 17,350-foot pinnacle in the Canadian Rockies, the exploring party is unable to fly two remaining members of the group to the base camp, 8500 feet up on the Walsh glacier, because of a lack of snow.

"Existing weather conditions are the most absurd in years," Washburn wired today. Only six feet of snow has fallen here during the winter. Rains have melted it badly, exposing many crevasses."

Pilot Robert Reeve of Valdez, Alaska, successfully landed Washburn and Robert H. Bates, Philadelphia, at the base camp Friday.

Because of hazardous conditions of the snow, Washburn decided against a flight by Russell Dow, Woodsville, N. H., and Norman Bright, Sunnyvale, Cal.

Heiress Hunted In Greenwich, Ct.

Stony Brook, N. Y., June 23 (US)—Search for Mrs. Alice Parsons, missing wealthy society matron was concentrated on Greenwich, Conn., today.

Special Agent John B. Lord, of the Department of Justice, directed a squad of aides in the quest.

Two waitresses identified photographs of Mrs. Parsons as pictures of a woman who lunched in a Greenwich restaurant last Thursday afternoon.

Agent Lord's men asserted the woman they sought came to Greenwich from Stamford by train. Railroad employes confirmed that report. The federal men asserted the lead appeared more promising than any developed since the society matron disappeared.

In Stony Brook, federal agents disclosed that the cellar of the Parsons' Brookhaven farm house has been searched and the floor excavated without yielding trace of the missing woman's body.

Pittsburgh Papers Suspend on 'Sit-In'

Pittsburgh, June 23—Mailing room employes in a sit-strike forced the three Pittsburgh newspapers, the Press, the Sun-Telegraph and Post-Gazette, to suspend publication "indefinitely."

Publishers declared the strike broke a contract which runs until January 7, 1938, and will throw more than 5000 employes out of work.

They said the union demanded an immediate daily pay increase of $1.20 for day work and $1.50 for night work.

Gets 3 Years

Frank Sadowsky, 35, of Prospect street, Cambridge, was sentenced to three to five years in State prison after pleading guilty to a charge of breaking and entering and larceny of $185 from the home of Martin Burke, of Cambridge.

12-Year-Old Boy Flies Plane Alone

New York, June 23 (AP)—Edward Somers, 12-year-old member of an air-minded family, was acclaimed today as one of the youngest pilots ever to fly an airplane alone.

Yesterday he made his first solo flight 2000 feet over Floyd Bennett field. His brother Arthur, 17, and his sister Andree, 18, both student pilots, watched from the ground.

PARIS LEARNS GOLD FUND IS NEAR END

Paris, June 23 (AP)—Virtual exhaustion of France's 10,000,000,000 franc ($450,000,000) gold stabilization fund was disclosed today, indicating the gravity of the financial crisis which Premier Camille Chautemps' new cabinet has been called to solve.

"The stabilization fund soon will be obliged to call for gold from the Bank of France," Prof. Charles Rist and Paul Baudouin wrote in their joint letter of resignation from the fund management, its publication disclosed.

Rist and Baudouin, who resigned June 15 from the commission appointed to govern the exchange equalization fund, explained that they believed the plan of former Finance Minister Vincent Auriol to issue 9,000,000,000 francs ($225,000,000) from increased direct and indirect taxes would be "insufficient to reverse the trend of capital."

Auriol was replaced by Georges Bonnet, recalled as ambassador to the United States, in the Chautemps cabinet taking office today.

Rist and Baudouin appealed for broader tax increases and for the government to declare complete balancing of the budget as its policy. Their letter had been closely guarded.

Chautemps, premier for the third time, was received with his colleagues by President Albert Lebrun at the Elysee palace in the early morning.

The 52-year-old Chautemps shared honors with former Premier Leon Blum, who carried two-thirds of his former government into the new administration, and who was made vice-premier.

SPANISH PATROL QUIT BY HITLER

BRITISH ARMS KEEP PEACE

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER

(World Copyright, 1937. Reproduction in Whole or in Part Strictly Prohibited)

London, June 23—British rearmament burst another bubble of anxiety in Europe today, when, impressed by Britain's firm resistance against any stronger measures, Germany and Italy withdrew from the naval patrol of Spain. Their warships were ordered home.

Far from carrying out threats to blockade the Valencia coast and capture or sink the Red Spanish fleet, in retaliation for an alleged Red attempt to torpedo the Leipzig, Germany and Italy even consented to remain members of the non-intervention committee.

Opinion here is that if the same situation had arisen a year ago, before Britain began seriously to rearm, the Germans probably would have declared war on Valencia.

The decision taken by the Fascist powers nevertheless baffles observers, as withdrawal of the naval patrol means leaving the Spanish Loyalists' coast open to imports of arms, while by remaining in the non-intervention committee, Italy and Germany remain pledged to send no more help to rebel Generalissimo Franco.

The British and French patrol France's coast, and only if Portugal follows the Fascist lead and withdraws from the control scheme will there be a practicable way open for Germany and Italy to reinforce Franco—but still not without violating their pledge.

Despite satisfaction that the worst has not materialized, tension is still felt her that the Leipzig incident has not been liquidated, particularly because of the dispatch of more German naval vessels to the Mediterranean. The French are particularly alarmed over this threat to Mediterranean communications.

Immediate winner is the Soviet Union, pleased over the rupture of the four-power naval patrol agreement.

For Hitler and Stalin are the real antagonists in Nazi Germany's quarrel with Red Spain.

On the surface, Germany, backed by Italy but restrained by England and France, demanded retaliation for an alleged attempt of a Spanish Red submarine to torpedo the German cruiser Leipzig.

FACTS IN CONTROVERSY

Behind this controversy are basic facts:

1—Chancellor Hitler's principal foreign and political aim at the moment is to isolate the Soviet Union. He has made it plain Germany will not enter any new arrangement to guarantee peace in Europe until France abandons her pact with the U. S. S. R., which Hitler considers, and which, as a matter of fact, is, directed against Germany.

2—Hitler regards the Spanish Red government at Valencia as a branch of the Soviets, controlled from Moscow.

3—It is a fact, supported by reliable neutral testimony as well as by German allegations, that Valencia is now being constantly supplied with Russian warplanes and munitions from Odessa, but carried on Spanish government ships, which the naval control vessels of the non-intervention powers do not have the right to stop or even investigate.

4—Hitler bases his estimate of Germany's chances in Europe upon a firm belief that France is going the same way as Spain, and that France, under former Premier Leon Blum's Popular Front government, was bound to collapse and disintegrate into civil war, which would allow intervention of foreign powers, the same as the Spanish civil war has done.

BLUM'S FALL WAS SIGNAL

The moment Blum resigned, therefore, seemed a favorable opportunity for taking a strong line regarding Spain.

Until this storm blew up, Hitler made real progress in his effort to isolate his hated enemy, the Soviet Union. After the German battleship Deutschland was bombed by Red Spanish war planes and after Germany's retaliatory bombing of Almeria, Hitler succeeded in inducing France and England to join Germany and Italy in a special committee for non-intervention to consider ways of insuring safety for naval patrols.

The most significant thing this committee did was to exclude the Soviet Union, because it was not a participant in the naval control scheme.

SOVIETS BECAME UNEASY

The Soviets actually became uneasy over this arrangement, which seemed to foreshadow isolation of the U. S. S. R. It could have led to further cooperation among the four powers, without the Soviet, and the eventual possibility of bringing about a four-power pact which Mussolini proposed years ago, and which Hitler now espouses.

This possibility grew to a shape which frightened the Soviet Union badly when the British invited German Foreign Minister Constantin von Neurath to London.

Such, then, was the situation, when suddenly the Leipzig was reported fired on, although missed, by a submarine which could not be identified, but reportedly was a Red Spanish craft.

Hitler's immediate reaction was violent anger, colored by suspicion which grew to conviction, and is now openly asserted by official Germans here, that Moscow ordered the attack in order to provoke Germany to action which would break up the four-power group in London, and thus dissipate the danger of isolation of the Soviet Union.

GERMANY IN ERROR

It is upon this analysis of the situation that Hitler is now proceeding. Unfortunately, however, for Germany, despite clear recognition of the Bolshevik trap, if it is a trap, she is falling into it.

Hitler's demand for a joint naval demonstration was firmly rejected by England and France, and von Neurath's abrupt cancellation of his visit to London irritated the British to a degree which may be of future significance in Anglo-German relations.

The Times of London, in an ominous editorial, rejects Germany's apparent demand for British hostility toward the Soviet as the price of British friendship with Germany.

Thus, so far, German diplomacy, in the present trouble, appears not only to have failed to accomplish isolation of its chief enemy, but to have alienated the country which it most hoped to make a friend.

FIGHT REPEAL OF PRIMARIES

A challenge in the supreme court of Governor Hurley's action in attaching an emergency provision to a recently enacted bill repealing the pre-primary convention, loomed today.

Charging the actual purpose was to prevent advocates the right to seek a referendum, original sponsors of the pre-primary convention prepared to challenge the governor's good faith in declaring an emergency.

Headed by Francis Prescott, of Grafton, they were prepared to submit to Secretary of State Cook a petition for referendum containing ten names, with the understanding it will be refused.

"Make Hair Grow while the sun shines"

"It is a well known phenomenon that in the summer the growth of hair is moreapid," says Dr. Arnold Lorand, Vienna Dermatologist.

THAT Hair grows faster in the summer than at any other season is an established scientific fact. You can take advantage of this seasonal peculiarity by starting Thomas' hair and scalp treatment at once.

Your hair will respond more quickly to this famous proved method of treatment now than at any other time. Within an unusually short time your dandruff will disappear, hairfall will stop, and new hair will actually be visible on the thin and bald spots. Call at the Thomas' office and talk your problem over with the specialist in charge. He will gladly examine your scalp without charge or obligation and frankly tell you what Thomas' treatment can do for you.

217 Radcliffe Graduates Are Given Degrees

Radcliffe College, one of the first institutions to demand college education for woman, today celebrated its 54th commencement.

Degrees were conferred on 217 women graduates by President Ada L. Comstock at ceremonies in Sanders Theater, Cambridge.

Two recipients of doctor's degrees were "hooded" as one of the outstanding highlights of the rites. Included in the graduates were 16 receiving bachelor degrees, and 10 master's degrees.

Following history of Radcliffe, Dunbar, from its origin 54 years ago when a small "Society for Collegiate Instruction of Women" was founded in response to suffragette days, Dr. Samuel Eliot Morison, professor of history at Harvard and Radcliffe, delivered the address.

NAME THREE TRUSTEES

In the graduating class, receiving a bachelor's degree with magna cum laude honors was his daughter. Candidates were presented to President Comstock by Dean Frances Rumi Jordan of the college and Dean Bernice Brown Cronkhite of the graduate school.

Prof. Arthur Stanley Pease, member of the Harvard faculty, and two members of their alumnae association, Anna Evelyn Holman, 1914, and Mrs. Elizabeth Jeoney Taeusch, 1922, were named to the board of trustees by President Comstock.

Dr. Ralph Barton Perry was elected to the Edgar Pierce professorship in philosophy, succeeding Prof. Charles Burton Glick. Bentley Wirt Warren was renominated to the Radcliffe Council.

AWARDS ANNOUNCED

President Comstock awarded student prizes to the following members of the graduating class:

Dorothy Dutton Daniels, Worcester; Jeannette Stacey Eyre, Cambridge; Shoghig Terzian, New York.

Dorothy Kneeland Clark, Margaret Mation MacDonald, Wellesley; Margaret Lenore Wiley, Fannie Chude, Louisa Catherine Pinkham, Newton Center; Frances Callaway Porcher, Cocoa, Fla.; Ann Hoar Tracy, Concord; Frances Gertrude Mulhearn, East Milton; Priscilla Thierry, Cambridge; Marion Estelle Crawford, Berlin, Wis., and Frieda Emma Schauroth, Kenmore, Ky.

Of those receiving bachelor degrees, Marion E. Crawford, Berlin, Wis., and Ann H. Tracy, Concord, were graduated summa cum laude.

Magna cum laude degrees were awarded to Eleanore M. Bell, Arlington; Nina Bourne, New York; Ruth Brooke, Concord; Mary F. Collins, Canton; Dorothy D. Daniels, Worcester; Jeannette S. Eyre, Cambridge; Hildegarde Hinchman, Milton.

10 BECOME DOCTORS

Phyllis E. Lamothe, Arlington; Margaret M. Macdonald, Wollaston; Cecelia Seltzer, Malden; Emily M. Morison, Boston; Frances Gertrude Mulhearn, East Milton; Laura Fairchield Norcott, Medford; Marjorie Harriet Pink, Nutley, N. J.

Louisa Catherine Pinkham, Newton Center; Doris A. Reimer, Brookline; Freida E. Schauroth, Kenmore, N. Y.; Elizabeth E. Smith, Wollaston.

Patricia Sussmann, Reading; Priscilla Thierry, Cambridge, and Mary D. Washburn, New York.

Doctor's degrees, conferred on 10 women, went of Betty B. Burch, West Hartford, Ct.; Candace Carstens, orest Hills, N. Y.; Gladys E. Collins, Moorestown, N. J.; Alice B. Critchett, Watertown; Selma E. Fine, New York; Erminie G. Huntress, Pittsfield; Mary MacArthur, Queensland County, N. S.; Jean H. Mulliken, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; Catherine G. Ruggles, Cambridge, and Louise E. Scattretty, New Orleans, La.

CLASS OF '12 HONORS ITS MARSHAL

HUGH L. GADDIS — THORVALD S. ROSS — CONGRESSMAN WIGGLESWORTH

JOSEPH P. KENNEDY

Celebrating his 25th Harvard class reunion and his 15th wedding anniversary simultaneously, Hugh Lawrence Gaddis of Cleveland, O., chief marshal of the class of 1912, is receiving a crystal goblet from Thorvald S. Ross of Brighton, reunion chairman. With his hand on Gaddis' shoulder is Congressman Richard B. Wigglesworth, Harvard '12, of Milton. Beside Wigglesworth is Joseph P. Kennedy, Harvard '12, formerly of Boston, now chairman of the federal maritime commission.

Harvard Class Day

4000 GRADS AT EXERCISES OF '37 SENIORS

In historic Kirkland triangle, the class that introduced President Conant to Harvard began the last day of its undergraduate life today.

Eight hundred seniors of the class of 1937, first class of Harvard's fourth century, joined with the 25-year reunion class and other alumni in the traditional festive rite of Class Day.

Seated on the platform in Kirkland triangle, flanked by members of the family, the trustees and distinguished alumni, Harvard's youthful President Conant witnessed the literary exercises of the first graduating class to spend its entire student life at the University during his administration.

4000 ALUMNI PRESENT

More than 4000 alumni, returning from the far corners of the nation to do homage to their alma mater, with their families, parents of the seniors and guests of the university filled the yard.

Led by class marshals, Neil G. Malone, Minneapolis, Minn., John R. Bowditch, oConord, and Charles W. Kessler, Salem, the senior professional moved from Lowell House tower and into Kirkland triangle.

Exercises were opened by the invocation of the Rev. Charles E. aPrk, pastor of the First Church of Boston.

DEMOCRACY URGED

Giving the class oration, Edward O. Miller, St. Louis, Mo., urged a more democratic spirit among students in the houses, greater faculty-student cooperation, and more liberalism in university instruction on economic and political problems.

Speaking for an "intelligent consideration" of the problems of labor, Miller declared:

"Organized labor, like organized industry, has a proper place in our industrial scheme of things.

"Even among Harvard men," he said, "the tradition of free thought is being challenged.

"Unthinking alumni protest appointment of liberals to high offices, on the ground that they lack a 'pure legal temperament'," said Miller, in scoring protests at the appointment of James M. Landis, former SEC chairman, as dean of Harvard Law School.

DUTY OF LIBERALISM

"It is the very duty of us who have inherited Harvard's liberal traditions to be continually on guard against such subtle dictatorial intolerance."

Class poem was recited by Maurice Sapienza, Irvington, N. J., with class chorister Charles M. Storey Jr., Jamaica Plain, leading the singing of "Fair Harvard."

Seniors lunched together for the last time as undergraduates at noon at Kirkland House, while alumni and other guests were served in other houses along Memorial Drive.

Leading the picturesque alumni parade in the afternoon, the class of 1912, boasting leaders in the nation's industry, politics and arts, donned Puckerish garb to celebrate their 25th reunion.

GADDIS ALUMNI MARSHAL

In charge of the alumni was Hugh L. Gaddis, '12, of Cleveland, O., chief marshal of the graduates.

Officers of the senior class in addition to the marshals, are Samuel Adams, Brookline, treasurer, and Robert C. Holcombe, Cambridge, secretary.

Permanent class committee members include Perry J. Culver, Exeter, N. H.; C. Colmery Gibson, Atlanta, Ga.; Rolf Kallenborn, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Peter H. Knapp, Syracuse, N. Y.; Malcolm B. McTernen, Jr., Andover, and Leavitt S. White, Plainfield, N. J.

Harvard Gives 10 Fellowships

Fellowships for study and travel in Europe have been awarded to 10 members of the graduating class at Harvard, it was announced today.

The following seniors received fellowships:

Edward O. Miller, St. Louis, Mo., magna cum laude in government, awarded the Lionel de Jersey studentship at Emmanuel College, Cambridge University, England.

James A. Field, Chicago, cum laude in history and literature, awarded the Lieutenant Charles Henry Fiske scholarship at Trinity College, Cambridge, England, and the Fiske fund for travel in France.

Henry Russell Shaw traveling fellowships were awarded to Maurice H. Heins, Dorchester, summa cum laude in mathematics, and Hubert H. Nexon, Brookline, summa cum laude in economics.

Frederick Sheldon prize fellowships were awarded to Robert L. Bishop, Great Neck, N. Y., summa cum laude in economics; William A. Coates, Milton, summa cum laude in German; Howard F. Schomer, Oak Park, Ill., summa cum laude in history and literature, and Robert J. Stevenson, Washington, D. C., summa cum laude in romance languages.

Henry fellowships for study at Oxford University, England, were awarded to Neil G. Malone, Minneapolis, first marshall of the senior class; Peter Viereck, New York, summa cum laude in history and literature.

Divorces Husband For Second Time

For the second time, Mrs. Lillian E. McDermott, a stylishly attired Dorchester wife, today divorced Stuart McDermott. As on the first occasion, she charged cruel and abusive treatment.

"My mother and father urged me to remarry him after the first divorce," she told Judge Frederick J. Dillon in Suffolk probate court.

"I did, but when he went away over a week-end and I asked him where he had been, he hit me. He didn't work much, was out all night, and I met him on the street with other girls.

"When I asked them if he had been going out with them, they said, 'Yes,' and he said, 'Well, what of it?'"

The couple was first married Sept. 16, 1924, divorced March 21, 1930, and re-married Dec. 2, 1932.

Phi Beta Kappa Keys Given Nine at Radcliffe

Nine seniors at Radcliffe College, ranking highest in scholastic standing and also active in student affairs, today were elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa, national honor fraternity.

Girls honored at commencement exercises of the college include Louisa Pinkham, Newton Center, former secretary of the student government association; Ruth Brooks, Concord, vice-president of the International Club, and Eleanore Bell, Arlington, president of the Idler Club, dramatics organization.

Mary Washburn, New York, president of Briggs Hall dormitory; Laura Norcott, Medford, editor of the class yearbook; Hildegarde Hinchman, Milton, president of International Club.

Emily Morison, Boston, chairman of baccalaureate committee; Dorothy Daniels, Worcester, blind student with high academic rating for four years at Radcliffe.

Marion Crawford, Berlin, Wis., awarded the Harvard Annex scholarship for advanced study in economics.

Officers of the Phi Beta chapter are Ann Hoar Tracy, secretary, and Louise Earle, East Lynn, president.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go
The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food does not digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas blows up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.
Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel up and up. Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

"Your Opinion," CONTEST

This is the Second Page. The Previous Page ran on Wednesday, June 16.

In addition to today's Boston American, this page will be repeated on Wednesday, June 30th. The advertisers on this page are anxious to find out what the readers' opinions are of the best value in today's paper. Study each of their advertisements elsewhere in today's paper and then let us have your opinion in a simple letter of not more than 100 words of the best value. It is not necessary to color these pages—you are to save and return all 3 pages along with your letter to the Contest Editor.

$200 in CASH just in time for vacation needs

Here is an easy way to get vacation money by writing a simple letter. Just think of the fun it will give you on your vacation, just by saving this page and two others and sending them along with your letter, to the Contest Editor, Boston American, 5 Winthrop Square, Boston, Mass.

First Prize - - - - $25 2nd Prize - - - - $15

3rd, 4th and 5th Prizes $10 each

26 Prizes $5 each

HERE ARE THE SIMPLE RULES

1. The stores listed on this page are anxious to know what in your opinion is the best value in today's paper. Read each and every one of their advertisements elsewhere in today's paper and then write a letter of not more than 100 words on the subject, "What I Consider The Best Value In Today's Paper."
2. You may select any store on this page for the subject of your letter.
3. Mail or bring in the three contest pages published June 16th, 23rd and 30th, to the "Your Opinion Contest" Editor, Boston American, 5 Winthrop Square, Boston, Mass., on or before midnight July 7th. Entries bearing a postmark later than midnight, July 7th, will be ineligible.
4. For the best letter in the opinion of the judges on the subject, "What I Consider The Best Value In Today's Paper," a first prize of $25 will be awarded—for the next best letter, a 2nd prize of $15—for the 3rd, 4th and 5th prizes, $10 each—and 26 prizes of $5 each.
5. It is not necessary to color pages or make elaborate entries. Advertisers are interested in your opinion. Neatness and logical reasons in a letter of not more than 100 words will count.
6. Contestants may send in as many entries as desired, but each entry must be accompanied by the three contest pages or reasonable facsimiles and a 100-word letter.
7. Contestants need not purchase copies of the Boston American in order to compete. Copies of the newspaper may be seen at office of publication, 5 Winthrop Square, Boston, Mass., or at the Public Library. Trace copies or facsimiles of the three contest pages will be eligible.
8. Anyone is eligible except employees of the Hearst newspapers or members of their families.
9. The judges will be three disinterested people not connected with the Boston American and their decision shall be considered final.
10. Winners will be announced in the Boston American on Monday, July 12th, and checks mailed immediately to winners.
11. All entries submitted will become the property of the Boston American. None will be returned.
12. Entry in the contest implies acceptance of all rules provided.

ENTRIES MUST BE IN BEFORE MIDNIGHT JULY 7TH

N. E. MOTHER OF 2 SHOT IN N. Y. ROW

Mrs. Marion Strand, 23, a nurse, mother of two children, who lives in Shrewsbury, was shot and critically wounded today in a New York doctor's office, in a quarrel over $600.

Her assailant, according to police, was Dominick Kaufman, 35, who is alleged to have said he has a wife in Detroit, from whom he is estranged.

Kaufman had powder burns on his chest when arrested and police quoted him as saying he turned the gun on himself and pulled the trigger four times, but the weapon missed fire.

The shooting took place in an office at 505 West End avenue where Mrs. Strand was employed.

"We were close friends for a year and a half and I gave her $600 during that time," said Kaufman, according to police detectives. "I went to see her to get some of it back.

"She told me she'd give me a dollar a week but I said I had to have $100. Then she taunted me. She said 'go ahead and take me to court and sue for it.'"

Mrs. Strand was shot in the neck and back and at Roosevelt Hospital her condition was described as serious.

Kaufman was taken to her bedside and identified by her, police said. He is a furrier and amateur music composer and lives in West Eighty-fifth street.

Report 9 Slain In Mexican Clash

Villahermosa, Tabasco State, Mexico, June 23 (AP)—Dispatches from the ranch of Medellin reported today the slaying of nine persons, including the Villahermosa police chief in a gun battle that followed an attempt to arrest a group of Catholics attending religious services in a private home.

LOST? HUH! WHO CARES?

Getting lost turns out to be a lot of fun, after all, for little Olivia Kenney of Everett street, Allston. She's having a fine time studying the workings of the two-way radio system at the Brighton police station, with Patrolman Cecil McCollem as instructor. A cousin, Lawrence Kay, came to claim her, ending her three-hour station house visit.

States Want Fish

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

When an irresistible relief bill meets an immovable Congress, they waltz together.

Today we must decide what the local communities will contribute toward their own welfare. They may compromise and permit Uncle Whiskers to contribute all, as usual.

Up to now the states and cities have been like the butler raiding the family wine cellar. All they have furnished is the habit and the opportunity.

Senator Byrnes thinks the localities should put away the crying towel and help feed themselves. The senator forgets that states and circus seals are accustomed to having their fish thrown to them.

'Thrown at Them'

Minister Guilty In Wife Slaying

Colorado Springs, Colo., June 23 (AP)—The Rev. Harry Ashley, 44, who carried a Bible to court during his trial, was convicted last night of the jealousy slaying of his 17-year-old wife, Virginia, last January. Ashley testified his wife carried on a clandestine affair in the home of a neighbor.

17 HURT IN 4 STATE AUTO CRASHES

Seventeen persons, including 10 in one accident, were injured today in automobile crashes in Dorchester, Back Bay, Dedham and Ware.

In the Ware crash 10 persons were injured, one seriously, when a car taking students to the Northampton business school collided with a truck carrying workmen to the Foster dam construction in West Ware.

Taken to Mary Lane Hospital in Ware was Miss Stephany Wozniak. Her condition was considered serious and her name was placed on the danger list.

According to police, the students' car was driven by Ernest Desjaurier and the truck by Fred J. Ballard. All of the injured were treated at the hospital.

TEACHERS HURT

Two Norwood junior high school teachers were hurled out of their car by the impact of the crash when the machine in which they were riding swerved off the road on a sharp curve and struck a tree on Westfield street, Dedham.

The men were William Wynaught, 29, of Winslow avenue, Norwood, and Francis F. McAuliffe, 28, of Sherman street, Gardner. At Norwood Hospital McAuliffe was found suffering from a possible fractured skull and Wynaught a dislocated right hip, a fractured nose and right arm and cuts and abrasions of the face.

In the Back Bay Patrolman Daniel Reardon, 38, of Train street, Dorchester, was the victim when the prowl car in which he was riding crashed into a tree on Park drive.

He is attached to the Back Bay station. At City Hospital he was found suffering from concussion of the brain and other injuries.

CRASH IN DORCHESTER

Frederick R. Driscoll of Hamilton street, Dorchester, well known bail commissioner, was one of four persons injured in a collision at Harvard and Norwell streets, Dorchester.

Driscoll and his passenger, Evelyn Feeley, 27, of Wales street, Dorchester, was treated for shock.

Mrs. Marion Rosen, 34, of Paris street, Dorchester, an occupant of the other car, was taken to Forest Hills Hospital suffering from a fractured collarbone.

Dies With Kiss After 20 Years

Bari, Italy, June 23 (AP)—After living for 20 years at Los Angeles, Mrs. Lucia Panzarini came back to Bari today with her husband, Carlo Panzarini. She kissed her mother, Signora Fiore Turi.

Then Signora Turi fell dead at her daughter's feet.

Missing Maid Hunted in R. I.

Newport, R. I., June 23—Local and Rhode Island state police today investigated the disappearance of Olga Grey Daniels, 20, a maid, who left here May 2 for Hampton, Va., and never arrived.

'Whirligig' Shatters Disease

Doctor Finds Way to Break Up Viruses

Denver, June 23 (AP)—Discovery at the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research that viruses which cause disease can be made to "fall apart" and become harmless was reported here today.

The discovery was made with the new whirligig of science, the ultracentrifuge, which extracts into plain view disease viruses which heretofore couldn't be seen even with microscopes.

It discloses a new principle of the nature of disease. It was reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science by Dr. W. G. Wyckoff of the institute's Princeton laboratories.

The whirligig is a steel top, two or three inches in diameter, spinning on a cushion of compressed air. It whirls at speeds up to 50,000 revolutions a minute.

This speed, also supplied by compressed air, subjects anything placed inside the top to a force several thousand times the pull of gravity. Since the pull is greater for heavier particles and less for the lighter ones, the heavier ones are thrown farther, and each kind may be seen separately.

A light that flashes each time the top revolves—50,000 times a minute if the ultracentrifuge is running at that speed—illuminates the "sample" in the top and makes it appear to be standing still. Thus scientists can examine the separated particles while the top is in motion.

Viruses from the whirling include those that cause encephalomyelitis, a brain inflammation; the papilloma virus that causes warts and cancer in rabbits and those that induce potato and tobacco mosaic, both plant diseases.

All these viruses are protein substances rich in nitrogen. All are gigantic molecules, thousands of times bigger than average.

When the viruses lose their power for harm, they break up.

The rabbit cancer virus breaks up and becomes harmless when the acidity in which it "lives" is slightly changed.

Encephalomyelitis virus, Dr. Wyckoff said, breaks into many small fragments. These are so small the whirligig cannot separate them completely from the tissues.

Tobacco mosaic virus also breaks up, and when it does it loses its ability to cause the tobacco disease.

Woman Gives Up In Year-Old Slaying

Chicago, June 23 (AP)—Mrs. Carmelia Ruth Freed, sought for nearly a year in connection with the slaying of Audrey Vallette, North Side blonde party girl, surrendered today.

The body of pretty Miss Vallette was found, fatally shot, in her near North Side hotel July 2, 1936.

Witnesses identified Mrs. Freed as the woman they saw leaving the hotel just before the blonde victim was found dead.

2 Die in "Safe" Mine

Napa, Cal., June 23 (AP)—Ten minutes after a recently reopened mine had been declared in good condition by State Safety Inspector Frank Newton yesterday, a cave-in killed W. W. Neighbarger, 55, and Frank Wheeler, 50.

GROCERS HEAR FARM PLEA

Mrs. Charles W. Sewell, administrative director of the Associated Women of the American Farm Bureau Federation, told the National Association of Retail Grocers today "It's up to the women" to change an "extravagant" national system of distribution to assure farm women fair living standards.

"Of the dollar spent by the consumer of foodstuffs for bread last year, the farmer received 17 cents, she said. Of the dollar spent for sugar, he got 32 cents, for beef, 45 cents; pork, 29 cents, and dairy products, 45 cents. The ratio for fruits and vegetables was much less."

Mrs. Sewell suggested that the American grocer "take the farm woman into his confidence and let her tell her own story. As American women, no matter where their homes may be, they want and are justly entitled to exactly the same standards of living as those afforded other groups of citizens."

Theatrical Premieres Hold Social Spotlight

By BETTY ALDEN

NOTHING SEEMS to be held in more contempt by members of the theatrical world than something old . . . The minute an actor or producer hears a joke or song, or witnesses a scene which he thinks he has seen before . . . he immediately calls it "stale" and "old stuff" . . . yet the two important theatrical openings which are in the news today are premieres of productions which draw their entire inspiration and background from things several generations old . . . The movie with the flippant modern title "The Girl Said No" which had its world premiere last evening at the Shubert Theater featured songs and sequences from Gilbert and Sullivan shows that have proven popular with theatergoers for many decades . . . The other opening is the long awaited arrival in Boston of Helen Hayes' "Victoria Regina" . . . A play concerning the life of a queen who lent her name to the Victorian era, a period in customs and manners which we now look upon as being the very epitome of things archaic and old fashioned . . .

MRS. SAMUEL DRURY, JR.

Yet this revival of a supposedly dry-as-dust strait-laced era has run two seasons on hard-boiled, ultra-modern Broadway, and is most eagerly awaited by Boston theatergoers . . . The Boston premiere will be held at the Shubert Theater on September 20 . . . and the second performance, on Tuesday evening, the 21st, will benefit the Free Hospital for Women . . . Rebekah Hobbs, who does not let the fact that her family is socially prominent deter her from being an earnest and energetic worker as the Boston director of the Theater Guild and the American Theater Society arranged the benefit performance with the Ladies Board of the Free Hospital . . . Even at this early date there is quite a list of subscribers including Mrs. Richard M. Saltonstall, Mrs. Guy Waring, Mrs. Joseph Woods, Mrs. B. H. Bristow Draper, Ernest B. Dane, Mrs. Clement Houghton, Mrs. H. S. Hunnewell, Mrs. William Dana Orcutt, Mrs. Henry Endicott, Miss Elizabeth C. Barr, Mrs. J. A. Lowell Blake, Mrs. Theodore E. Brown, Mrs. Malcolm Bradlee, Mrs. Louis Frothingham, Mrs. Harold Pitman, Mrs. Philip Sears and Miss Alison Houghton . . .

Young Set Members Act as Ushers

GIRLS WHO HAVE WORN all sorts of costumes as ushers and flower girls at Pop concerts, Vincent Club shows and benefits added another creation to their wardrobes when they acted as ushers at the premiere of "The Girl Said No" last evening . . . Leslie and Mimi Blake of Dedham and Cohasset, Pauline McKean and Johanna Hoyt and Francis and Elise Sortwell from the North Shore, and Gene White and Beverly Barnes of Cohasset dressed up in the Japanese costumes of the Three Little Maids from the "Mikado" to carry out the Gilbert and Sullivan motif as they showed the first nighters to their seats . . .

Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird came up from Walpole with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Francis Bird . . . to compare the movie with the countless theatrical productions of G. and S. she has witnessed . . . Her gown of filmy black lace was topped with a soft velvet jacket . . . Lydia Fuller wore a beautiful dusty pink faille wrap with voluminously draped sleeves, over a flowered print . . . and Mrs. Henry Tudor's gown of print was splashed with red flowers . . .

Morgan's Granddaughter Bride Today

MILLIONS AND MILLIONS of dollars and the highest social position have proven many times to be no armor or fortification against the well-aimed darts of the chubby little fellow with the bow and arrow...and the Morgan-Clark wedding in New York today is another argument to confound the cynics who hold that the world is all dross and sentiment is dead . . .

The bride in this instance is Louise Morgan, granddaughter of the noted financier, J. P. Morgan . . . and her bridegroom is Raymond Skinner Clark, son of Mrs. Raymond S. Clark of New York . . . Sentiment plays a large part in Louise's plans for the wedding . . . to the extent that she is being married in the Church of St. John's at Lattingtown, Long Island, of which her grandfather is warden . . . the date is the first anniversary of the bridegroom's graduation from Harvard . . . and the best man, Shaun Kelly, Jr., will not be separated from his fiancee by so much as a church pew as he fumbles for the ring, for his future bride, Jeanne Millet, will be standing right near him in her bridesmaid's frock . . .

Hope Bryant Drury, who shared honors with Miss Morgan at a ball given at the Ritz-Carlton a number of autumns ago by Mr. and Mrs. Louis Curtis, is one of the bridesmaids . . . and another Boston miss, Mary Bryant, is also marching in the bridal procession . . . Jeanne Millet and Shaun Kelly, Jr., are to live in Boston following their marriage on the third of July . . . and Virginia Pennoyer, another bridesmaid, is a cousin of the bride and an intimate friend of Marjorie Motley of Hamilton whom she visited frequently last year when they were both debutantes . . . Anne Morgan, the bride's sister, Marie McCook of Pasadena, Betty Gay Symington, another girl with Boston affiliations; Frances Frick and Emily Hornblower complete the bridal procession at today's wedding . . . Mr. and Mrs. Louis Curtis of Nahant are attending the wedding . . . The bride's maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Converse of Dedham.

TOAST BRIDAL COUPLE AT MAGNOLIA

TO THE HEALTH, wealth and happiness of Violet Amory and Bill Loomis, 3d, whose wedding takes place next Monday, Jane Ragle and Peter Hare proposed a toast between dances at the Casino in Magnolia, when the prospective bridal couple and some of their wedding attendants were entertained at a supper party last week. Miss Ragle is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin Ragle of Marlborough street and Topsfield, and Mr. Hare has been the house guest of Charles Meyer.

Weddings Top Week-End Calendar

White satin and tulle—orange blossoms and Lohengrin will be the keynote of the week-end with numerous Bostonians scurrying about attending the fashionable weddings slated for Saturday morning.

Margaret Young, daughter of Mrs. William Young of Medford, heads the array of brides with her wedding to Timothy Feeny of Medford slated for ten o'clock in St. Joseph's in West Medford.

The bride's brother, William Young, will give her away. Rev. John J. Donahue will officiate and the reception to the couple will be staged at the Medford Women's Club. Ella Connor of Medford will serve as honor attendant and the bridesmaids include two of the bridegroom's sisters . . . Mrs. E. Corbett Walsh, the former Norinne Feeny, and his younger sister, Mary Dorothea. Also preceding the bride altarward will be Mrs. Charles Powers, a sister of the bride, and Dorothy Quinn of Medford.

Coming on from Albany, N. Y., to serve as best man is Robert Sullivan, a former classmate at Holy Cross. Two other members of Holy Cross '30, Paul Eiserlough of Lowell and Thomas F. Kane of Hartford, Conn., are members of the usher corps, which also numbers E. Corbett Walsh and Paul Young, another brother of the future Mrs. Feeny.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Lawrence Memorial Hospital. Mr. Feeny, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Feeny of Medford, was graduated from Holy Cross and is an officer of the Boston Club of Holy Cross

Brusch-Lynch Ceremony

Another wedding of importance takes place at the same time in Cambridge when Margaret Lynch, daughter of John J. Lynch and sister of Mayor John D. Lynch, becomes the bride of Dr. Charles Brusch of Cambridge.

St. John's Church in North Cambridge will be the setting for the ceremony which will be performed by Rev. Hugh F. Blunt and followed by a breakfast at the Hotel Continental.

Two junior attendants, Peggy Ann Brusch, niece of Dr. Charles Brusch, and Thomas Danehy, nephew of the bride will walk in the bridal procession. Mary O'Connell of Cambridge will be bridesmaid and Mrs. Edward Danehy will be honor attendant.

Dr. Brusch has chosen his brother, Dr. Joseph Brusch of Cambridge, as his best man. Ushering at the ceremony will be Thomas O'Hare, Edward Danehy, John Lynch, Paul Hearn, Dr. William O'Connor, S. Lang Macrauler, Dr. John Cahill, Harry Bartelle, Franklin Gardner, Alfred Young, Dr. Carl Binney and Thomas Cunningham.

Miss Lynch, who is head of the history department at the Cambridge High and Latin School, was graduated from Boston Teachers' College, Boston University and obtained her doctor of philosophy degree from Boston College. She is prominent in affairs of the Boston College alumnae.

Dr. Brusch, the son of Mrs. Anthony Brusch of Cambridge, was graduated from Lawrence University and Tufts Medical Schol.

A diner at the Abner Wheeler House in Framingham and a buffet supper at the home of Mrs. Alfred Young in Cambridge honored the popular bride-elect.

Eleanor Donovan, Future Bride, Feted

North Shore's limelight will be focused on Eleanor King Donovan of Peabody, who becomes Mrs. Robert Eugene Sullivan at a ten o'clock ceremony in St. John's Church, Peabody, with Rev. George Mullin officiating.

The jolliest party, honoring the couple, was the dinner dance which Dr. and Mrs. Charles E. Donovan of Swampscott gave at the Salem Country Club last evening.

Mrs. Donovan, who will serve as treasurer for the coming year in the Ace of Clubs, was a charming hostess in her aquamarine lace frock, a lovely corsage of orchids completing the ensemble. The bride-elect, Miss Eleanor, assisted in receiving, her billowy frock of white mousselleine de soie set off by a cluster of red roses.

The bridal party was there "en masse"—Mrs. Franklin Millea, who before her large wedding last year, was Dorothy Poor, Caroline and Julia Sullivan, sister of the bridegroom, Anne Lehane, a classmate of Miss Donovan's at Emmanuel College. At Saturday's wedding, Mrs. Donovan will act as matron of honor.

Glimpsed at the jolly affair were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Carr, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. O'Hare, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. William Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell McConnell and Mr. and Mrs. James Sullivan.

Also included in the guest list, which numbered 40, were Dr. and Mrs. William T. O'Halloran, Dr. and Mrs. John Barry, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carr, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Barry, Jr.

Mary Field, president of the Boston Chapter of Trinity College alumnae, was escorted by Walter Conway. Rette Dee, another active member of the Ace of Clubs, attended with Ed Keleher whose brother, Paul, entertained Margie Donovan for the evening.

Others having a merry time dining and dancing were Eleanor Dee, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Barry and Jerry and Arthur Millea.

New Dancers Club Entertains

With dreaded finals a thing of the past—the college set will launch its vacation with a jolly frolic Friday evening at the Sandy Burr Country Club.

Various colleges are represented on the committee for the affair—which is being ably directed by the New Dancers Club. Unusual entertainment has been planned.

On the committee are Frances Gregg, Dorothy and Virginia Grimes, Dorothy Telfer, Natalie Trundy, Patricia Lyons, Betsy Cairns, Margaret Hart, Marion Hicks, Mrs. Robert Daly, Mrs. E. Capen Farmer, Mrs. Edward J. Coleman and Mrs. Carlton Dillingham.

Busy with supper arrangements and other details are Ann Altimas, Win Patterson, Mary Verkampen, Evelyn Coyle, Alice Fitzwilliams, Phyllis Grace, Marjorie Kelly and Susan Thayer.

J. Raoul St. Pierre heads the list of ushers serving at the affair.

Fall Styles Win Fashion Congress

The Fashion Congress of America, meeting for the last time of the season, choose the cool sky-garden of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel today for the presentation of a dramatic showing of mid-summer and fall clothes.

Chic Mrs. John Godwin Downing of Newton, headed the committee of twelve style judges. Fashion's decidedly romantic tendencies were apparent in a group of davance fall coats as well as in a collection of play clothes for sea and shore.

There was more than a hint of the Victorian, too, in several demure evening gowns with full, lacy skirts and flowing slender scarfs. Fur coats featured a new manipulation of skins, those of the Persian variety being cut in long, narrow strips to simulate mink.

Assisting Mrs. Downing in awarding silver tags to winning costumes were the following Greater Boston women: Mrs. Frederic W. Sheehan, Mrs. William T. O'Halloran, Miss Dorothy Carney, Mrs. Christopher J. Duncan, Mrs. Raymond Stuart, Mrs. John J. McCarthy, Miss Anne Ryan, Miss Alice G. Barry, Mrs. William F. Cotting, Mrs. Edward J. Pickham and Mrs. Edward A. McLaughlin.

Society models who displayed the versatile collection were Miss Dorothy Dillon, Miss Jean Pierce, Miss Florence Dysart and Miss Carolyn Pierce. The Fashion Congress will resume its regular bi-weekly shows in September.

BOSTON after DARK

UNLESS THERE'S A swerve comes round the mountain and the lad doesn't go through with it, ears are due to burn at City Hall in connection with the WPA layoffs there and who was kept and who wasn't and the like . . . One councillor has confided that as soon as he can get his tongue warmed up and his gums flexed, he'll expose the manner in which those who went were picked and why some of those who remained were given the break . . . The column is told that one of those kept on the job in a certain City Hall office is the nephew (single) of a municipal office-holder, while in the same office the father of eight children was shunted back into the unemployment ranks . . . There may also be brought up the question of cash tributes in one quarter, but the column wouldn't know definitely about that . . . It's a bit misty . . .

GEORGE HOLLAND

Town Hall News:

It's two years now since W. Roxbury's Doris Reilly, Boston Consolidated Gas Co. phone operator in the Jamaica Plain branch, wrote a fan letter to Fred Allen (of the Boston Sullivans) . . . Not to be outdone in courtesy, Fred wrote back and said wasn't it a coincidence that they both were in the gas biz—and did she know his brother, Billy Sullivan, in the Charlestown branch . . . Doris and Fred and Portland Hoffa have been corresponding ever since, and it comes out now that Billy finally arranged to have her sit in on last week's broadcast (one of Fred's niftiest) . . . Somebody tipped off the engineer of the train and he whistled and tootled as he passed her office in McBride st., all the co-workers standing in the windows and even waving mops . . . After the broadcast, Fred showed her old Manhattan, and when he put her on the train for the Hub again, he made her promise to fudge on his gas bill when he comes back home here again to settle down. . . .

Those Barrys Are in Again:

Of the last three out of the five Eloping Barrys (the late ex-Lt.-Gov. Edward P. Barry's eyes always twinkled when he moaned he'd never had a chance to throw rice) Mary Louise (Mrs. Bill Boehner) has beaten her two brothers in the nursery division . . . It's a boy, at Mass. Women's Hosp. on Parker Hill . . . Husband Bill, ex- B. C. gridiron signal caller and diamond star, is now a faculty member and athletic coach at LaSalle Academy, Providence, and player-mgr. for Falmouth in the Cape League . . . Bill and Mary Louise raced up from the Cape as two, but go back as three . . .

Once Over Lightly:

Associate justice at Williamstown only a few months, Israel Ruby now is in line for top spot on that bench, due to the death of the octogenarian presiding justice . . . Taylor Will Make Film Abroad

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor Universal Service
Copyright, 1937, by Universal Service

Los Angeles, June 23—Looks now as if Robert Taylor will be the first Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star to sail for England.

Clark Gable was supposed to leave in July with Director John Conway for "Shadow of the Wing," but because of the passing of Jean Harlow and the necessity for his remaining here until "Saratoga" is completed, "A Yank At Oxford" starring Bob will probably be made first.

This is the story of an American boy who wins a Rhodes scholarship at the famous university. Naturally classic Oxford and other historic scenes of interest will furnish the background.

If Bob could put on a false face and slip into England without being known, his trip would be easier. In Honolulu recently he had to leave after a day and a half because he couldn't even sit on Waikiki Beach without being surrounded by autograph seekers. Of course, our stars appreciate all this attention but it's a bit difficult when it continues day and night.

• • •

A line or two: Everybody in Hollywood was having the time of his life today dialing that certain "time operator" (the gal who tells the hour) who has a voice like Garbo and Mae West combined! Secretly, one of our biggest studios has sent a scout to the telephone company to see if she has a face and figger to go with her voice . . . Hope every movie-struck kid won't be trekking to Hollywood when they hear how easily RKO's new find, Bob Hatcher, got a movie contract. Two weeks ago he was a gasoline station attendant with a yen to get in pictures. He sent photographs of himself and RKO liked his looks so well they've given him a contract . . . Speaking of RKO the big whisper all over the lot is that Andrea Leeds is stealing the glory in "Stage Door" with her grand performance.

Hal and Margaret Roach are about the proudest parents in Hollywood. Their pride and joy, Hal, Jr., walked away with all the honors when he was graduated from military school last week. Hal, Sr., is so pleased he's starting the boy tomorrow on his first job as second assistant director on the Roach lot . . . C. Henry Gordon goes into the cast of "Sophie Lang in Hollywood" along with Sandra Storm, the British belle discovered in a local night club. Chuck Reisner is directing.

Snapshots of Hollywood

MADELEINE CARROLL saved from drowning by her husband, who pulled her out of the surf at Malibut after a wave knocked her senseless; DOLORES DEL RIO stopping traffic when she showed up wearing gold earrings which completely covered her ears; GRACIE ALLEN helping MARY LIVINGSTONE remember her birthday by giving her a party at the Cocoanut Grove; SYLVIA SIDNEY and WILLIAM WYLER doing the night spots together; EARL CARROLL dining with a beautiful blonde. Sitting nearby FRANKLYN PANGBORN and EDNA MAE OLIVER. That's all for today. See you tomorrow!

A MUSIC MASTER

Herman Bing, vocal instructor to Grace Moore, Lily Pons and Gladys Swarthout, comes to the Metropolitan stage tomorrow in "Hullabaloo Revue."

'Girl Said No' Hailed at Premiere

By PEGGY DOYLE

Gilbert and Sullivan music at its best, backgrounding a slightly different romance that's as modern as tomorrow, is the reason the customers are yessing the Shubert's current attraction, "The Girl Said No."

When the first releases concerning Grand National's latest production came through, there was some doubt on this side of the gate as to the boxoffice possibilities of a picture presuming to mix the oil and water of a modern story and ye old Gilbert and Sullivan tunes.

All this predated last night's world premiere a la Hollywood, which was attended in droves by the Hub's upper-drawer set, littered with silver fox or uniformed in white coats and black trousers, as the case might be. If this initial audience's reaction means a thing, the play will go on and on at the Shubert with boxoffice designs on the records hung up by "Three Men on a Horse," "Boy Meets Girl" and other theatrical offerings of that ilk.

This fourth-paragraph mention may seem a touch tardy to rabid Gilbert and Sullivan fans but here 'tis—Frank Moulan, William Danforth and Vera Ross add lustre to "The Girl Said No" with their unexcelled singing of your favorite G. and S. melodies. And these celebrated tunes are not purple patches in the plot, either. They are dovetailed into the romance of Robert Armstrong, horsey Broadwayite, and Irene Hervey, paint-fresh dime-a-dance girl, by a master script carpenter, Andrew L. Stone, who also produced and directed, with superb skill.

"The Girl Said No" is a most beguiling and credible story that discovers Armstrong, just gipped to the skies by the gold-digging Irene, concentrated on paying her back in her own but subtly. He has her meet him in the swank offices of New York's top producer. The producer, presumably looking at her photographs, is actually gazing at some candid camera shots of a thoroughbred horse Armstrong has named her for and is vocally enthusiastic about the good points of "Virginia Lee."

Dubious up to this, the newly christened Virginia Lee is finally convinced to Armstrong's right intentions concerning her dramatic career. She pays him his agent's fee, which he splits with his fellow smoothies, Ed Brophy and Harry Tyler.

He is succeeding in hoodwinking the girl as completely that Armstrong eventually finds he must come through with a Broadway opening.

Despite the threat of arrests and process-servers, the performance is a great success and at its conclusion has the entire audience demanding bigger and better revivals featuring dear, little Buttercup, the Lord High Executioner, the Wandering Minstrel and all the other delightful folk the long-dead Gilbert and Sullivan have made deathless on the American stage.

CHAPTER 41

"Oh, don't mind what you said! You woke me up! You made me see what I've done to him. And so I telephoned and told him that you were going and I wasn't going with you, and I told him I'd lost my job with Walt because I was going to have a baby and couldn't pose for pictures any more!"

Julie clutched at her throat. She said, "Are you crazy. Why do you lie to him?"

"I didn't lie to him! Except about the job, and that isn't important, because whether Walt fires me or not, it's just the same. I can quit, and I will!"

"But your telling him that you were going to have a child. That's just one of the things that isn't—that isn't—Marie! Why didn't you TELL me?"

"Why didn't I . . . Oh, but I didn't tell anybody! I didn't even tell Edward. Everything was going wrong, and I didn't know what to do, or what he'd think, or how we'd manage, and so I just didn't say anything. I thought—oh, I don't know what I thought!"

"Oh, my darling—my poor baby! And to think of me, thinking I'm so smart, and not even guessing! Now you MUST come home."

ANOTHER CHANCE

"You really must. Later on we'll arrange to give Edward another chance. Charlie will find him something. Something nice. Won't you, Charlie? And then we'll all—"

"Oh, no—no! You don't understand. I'm not giving him any more chances. I'm not giving him anything but the baby! Oh, his mother will be so mad she'll shoot me!"

"Taking him away again—after he's just come home and dragged and haggled and she thought she had him forever!"

"He wanted to dash right back here, as soon as I spoke to him, but I told him no, to stop and park and explain to his mother and get it over with.

"Poor Mrs. Wilson, I almost feel sorry for her, she takes things so hard, and she does hate to rent rooms. But everybody else has to do things they don't want to do so why shouldn't she?"

Julie looked sick. She said, "But how will you LIVE? He has nothing."

"Oh, up in the mountains—Humbird county. He has a really wonderful chance to get into a big land deal with two men he's known all his life.

"It's the one thing he's always wanted to do, but he never had the money. And now, with what you gave me for the sale of my library books—"

"You weren't going to help him again," Charlie said.

"I'm not! Oh—that money! What's that? I wish I'd had brains enough to make him put the first money he made in commission into it, or that I'd used my first two months' salary.

"Mother, I hate to have to ask you, but won't you and Charlie please get started, because he'll be here almost any minute now and we'll want to be alone. You understand."

LOVE TRIUMPHS

Julie thought of the good comfortable car, neatly packed with her belongings, of pleasant autumn days, and Charlie's leisurely driving.

Of the security of the house on Dover street. Of money in her purse, and her own perfectly dignifying health and tonnage.

"Darling, you ARE sure about this Humbolt business, or whatever it is? The library money is enough? Because if it isn't, and if you think you'd rather come south with us just for a teeny weeny while, while Edward goes up there and looks around—"

"Oh, yes, it's enough, and, no, I wouldn't rather go with you. Oh, PLEASE go! I know he'll be here any minute, and I told him you'd gone and I'd be alone—"

Julie put her fat arms around the girl that she'd borne and loved and cared for and never quite understood.

She tried to laugh. "The whole thing sounds crazy to me, but its your life, and if it doesn't work out you can always wire collect, you know that, don't you darling?"

Marie wasn't listening. Her whole being was straining toward the front door, that Edward had burst open.

THE END

'Dress-up' and Casual Fashions Play Side by Side

IF YOU WANT to be "much too much and just too very, very" even in the casual atmosphere of sun and sand, you'll own a white acetate bathing suit with a flying cape.

Particularly you'll want this one with wildly dipping red and blue gulls all over its shimmering whiteness.

It is modeled by Miss Leslie Blake, who's being handed into a tender, watched by Miss Marjorie Weld in the most carefully casual, charmingly gamine play suit a girl could want.

There you have in one quick glance the beach fashion story of this summer. Elegance or nonchalance—either one goes! And if you're as smart as we expect you are, you'll have a little of both.

The rough linen play suit with schoolboy patch pockets and shirt sleeves (there's a bright wine blouse beneath the jeep-type jacket) is much fun to wear. But there's devastation—mistake it not—in the white bathing suit.

For shopping information on either beach fashion, phone Annice Brink, Fashion Editor, LIBerty 4000, week-days until five, or write her at the Boston Evening American.

MADGE STOPS ARGUMENT OF PROWESS BY A PROMISE

CHAPTER 336

I HAD a shrewd suspicion of the reason for Betty Gibbs' proposal to go down in front of her house and stage a running race, with her corollary that she "was getting tired of shooting at the old marks, anyway."

Junior put my thought into words, although, when I realized what he was saying, I tried vainly to stop him by putting my finger against my lips.

"What's the matter with you?" he queried, plaintively, "getting tired of getting beat?"

"What's the matter with you?" Betty retorted, her eyes snapping. "Afraid to try anything you can't win at?"

Roderick laughed raucously.

ROD IS DIPLOMAT

"Meanin' you think you can beat Jun?" he inquired tauntingly. Then he turned to his cousin with an air of amused assurance.

"You're not afraid to take her on in her own front yard, are you, Jun?" he asked.

I found myself awaiting my son's answer with tense curiousity as well as amusement.

"Aw forget it!" he brought out at last. "What would we want to race a girl for, Rod? She's liable to fall down and hurt herself, or—or—" he was patiently groping in his memory for some expression that would fill his want, finding it in a recollection of an experience with the grandmother—"or have a heart attack or somethin' and then we'd be blamed."

"Sissy! Fraid cat! Baby!" She hurled the epithets at him as if they were missiles, and I wondered apprehensively if she would work herself up to a pitch where her wrath would find satisfaction only in using my young son as a target for real missiles.

MADGE OFFERS PLAN

"You just don't dare race with me, either of you," she said, with a withering glance, including Roderick in her hymn of hate. "For you know I could beat both of you, first one and then the other. Yes, and forty dozen more like you. I never saw such sissies!"

Her voice broke unevenly, and I saw that she was near to explosive tears. The affair had gone beyond a childish bragging feat, and called for adult interference, much as I hated to abandon the role of silent spectator and auditor.

I rose abruptly and gave a little amused laugh as I put myself in a strategic position between Betty and the boys.

"Don't you think you're all being rather silly?" I said. "There's only one way to settle this, and that is to have a race. If you are good children and stop this nonsense at once, I'd guarantee that Mr. Williams will arrange for a race, and I will give a prize to the winner."

"Gee," the boys said with one breath, but Betty demanded proof.

"Honest?" she asked, and I saw with gratification that curiosity had shelved anger for the time being.

"Honest!" I repeated. "Indeed, I have a better plan than that." I improvised rapidly. "But tell me why you came up here just now? Did you just leave your shooting for a waiking race, or did you want to get something here?"

Simple Party Magic

MYSTIFY your party guests with magic! They'll vote your parties the most exciting in town.

The enchanted glass takes a steady hand. Fill a drinking glass with water, making sure the rim is perfectly dry. Drop in coins, one by one, until the water bulges perilously above the rim without running over.

For the upright egg trick, sprinkle a spot of salt on a white cloth before your audience knows what's up. The egg stands in it staunch as a soldier. As you lift the egg to let your guests try the stunt themselves, deftly brush the salt way. Try as they will, they can't make the egg stand.

"Here are the aces of spades, diamonds and clubs," you announce, holding up three cards. Shuffle the three. Lay them on the table. Move your hands over them, mysteriously, saying, "I command the ace of diamonds to disappear and the ace of hearts to take its place." Turn up the cards. Sure enough, there's the ace of hearts! Your audience won't guess that when you first held up the cards, only the point-ed tip of the heart showed so it looked like a diamond.

After these baffling mysteries, your crowd's ready for lively games like Sardine or Paul Revere's Ride. Let's hope you always warm your parties at the start with ice-breakers like Glad Hands or Musical Partners.

Health

Migraine Is A Form of Headache

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

TO suffer from periodical headache is always an annoying and decidedly unpleasant experience.

But to be the victim of "migraine," commonly called "sick headache," is indeed a serious matter.

The number of sufferers from this condition is very great and the "cures" offered to everyone it are almost as numerous.

Migraine is one of the severe forms of headache. Some persons are particularly liable to it, very much more so than others. It would seem to be hereditary in its nature, because it is often found among several members of the same family.

It occurs among women about three times as often as men.

RELATED TO ALLERGY?

During recent years a great deal of publicity has been given to what is called "allergy." This is the peculiar sensitivity of some persons to certain substances.

It may be some food or something breathed into the lungs. Hives or another form of skin disturbance is at times a symptom of allergy.

Some authorities believe there is a definite relationship between migraine and allergy. They point out that in both afflictions there are certain periods when the victim is free from attacks.

They also observe that some sufferers from migraine headache have attacks after eating certain foods. The specialists now recommend careful investigation of the prevailing "allergic" reactions of the patient.

Persons who are easily upset and subjected to excessive work, emotional or psychic strain, as well as other upsets, are those most apt to suffer from migraine. Of course, not all cases are the same, and for this reason it is difficult to explain the mechanism of these headaches.

"Your Figure, Madame!"

Hollywood Star Sets Reducing Example

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Copyright, 1937, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

IF you want to follow a star in reducing, I have found one whose program has been so effective that she calls herself "a remade woman."

I give you Beverly Roberts' figure program! She is a model of perfection in the way she has slimmed down to normal weight and lovely measurements.

The average person wants to lose 18 pounds in 18 days—but Miss Roberts took a year to lose that amount of weight.

She has always possessed the exuberant vitality characteristic of a girl with a large frame and superb health, and she wanted to lose the 18 pounds without losing an ounce of pep.

This she did. She went at her program intelligently, and her exercises were cleverly engineered to take off the weight from the hips, thighs, lower legs and ankles. If these are your measurement problems also, you will be keenly interested in the exercises which reduced Miss Roberts to symmetry.

It takes the right technique in exercise to bring the hips down from 39 inches to 36, as Miss Roberts did. She concentrates on hip and thigh exercises for 20 minutes a day, followed by a half-hour's massage.

BREAKFAST
Orange juice
10 A. M.
Cup of Bouillon
LUNCHEON
Omelet or Vegetable Plate or Spinach With Poached Egg
Glass Skimmed Milk
3 P. M.
Tea, Slice of Cinnamon Toast
DINNER
Broiled Chops, Steak or Fish (Never any fried meat)
Spinach or Other Green Vegtable
Glass of Skimmed Milk
Fresh Fruit for Desert
(Occasionally ice cream as an appetite safety valve)

Miss Roberts began with this exercise for hips and thighs:

POSITION: Standing erect, left hand braced against chair-back for support.

MOVEMENT: Raise right leg in front of body as high as possible. Without lowering the leg, circle sideways and clear around in back. Raise the leg as high as possible in back to tense the muscle of the buttocks. Do not lower leg to floor, but reverse the circling and continue for 12 swings, then lower leg to floor.

Perform the exercise with the left leg, bracing the body with the right hand. If you are lazy on your exercise, better not do this more than three times at the beginning. Gradually you can work up to 25 circles with each leg.

The following exercise, Miss Roberts guarantees, will flatten the tummy:

POSITION: Lying flat on back, arms outstretched straight from shoulders.

MOVEMENT: Pull right knee up to chest, swing it across body and touch floor with the knee-point. Try to keep shoulders and small of back flat on floor. Repeat with left leg, holding right extended on floor. Perform exercise six times, alternating knees. Later perform twenty-five times with each knee.

Miss Roberts considers the following well-known exercise one of the best for reducing the calf:

POSITION: Lying flat on back on floor, arms down at sides.

MOVEMENT: Heels and head rest straight. Paddle the feet, pointing the floor with toes. To stretch the calf muscles further, pull toes toward the instep as you paddle. Begin slowly and work up to fifty, then to one hundred times.

The exercise program is strenuous, and you will work into the routine gradually.

Miss Roberts' radiant health speaks for her slimming program. Two years she has had ten to much as a cold.

A Silken Texture for Your Skin

Cold Cream Soap and Brush Do Wonders

By ARLINE GOULD

IT'S a long way back to pigtail days, but can time ever dim the memory of mama-washed faces with skins as glowing and shining as stars?

Provide yourself with the best of the season's crop of flower-scented niceties, but unless your complexion has that heaven-sent look of childhood, you... not get very far —romantically speaking.

There's nothing like a skin of transparent loveliness when it comes to getting the man of your choice. You may not be able to attain Barbara Stanwyck's flawless features but you can rival her baby skin.

The girl who doesn't think the day begins right without using soap and water on her face has a radiance and a sense of well being. She is as fresh-looking as the morning. The world looks good to her.

When a complexion brush is used, the skin will glow even more. The friction of the bristles will not only remove dead particles but it will stimulate circulation, set the blood streams tingling . . . and banish any possibility of blackheads.

It is only the skin of orchidacious quality that can't tolerate a fine, bland soap. Soap is still the queen of cosmetics and when used in conjunction with creams and lotions will attain real skin loveliness.

Today's beauty parchment concerns both a soap and a complexion brush. The former ... fine a soap as ... ever ... In fact, it is a superfatted cold-cream affair made in England, and so bland that you can almost eat it.

It is made exclusively for one large downtown store and we are told is the same English soap that under a de-luxe label sells for $1.50 a cake.

The brush is a wee prophylactic affair, and is so shaped as to fit the nose. Hence, you dig gently into those hard-to-reach corners where blackheads and whiteheads often take up abode.

The soap is most inexpensive in price (it's a large sized cake) and the brush ... only less than $1. The two together make an unbeatable team, and when you consider that we are about to begin the hardest season of the year on good looks, it seems logical to suppose they will do a masterly job of keeping one's face fresh and love...

To learn the name of this superfatted cold-cream soap, made in England, and the wee complexion brush call Arline Gould Liberty 4000, weekdays until 5, or write to her at the Boston Evening American enclosing a stamped, self addressed envelope.

GOOD MANNERS

HOUSEWARMING

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am planning to have a housewarming and need some information as I have never been to a housewarming. Most of the crowd we go around with are young married people and they don't care for playing cards. When we have a party we usually have a five-piece orchestra and have dancing.

But I don't think this would be correct for a housewarming. I realize a housewarming is mostly for inspection of the house but it seems as if there should be some kind of entertainment. If I do have dancing my hardwood floors will be ruined. I expect about 50 people. Please tell me what you would suggest.

T.

If I were you I wouldn't plan any special entertainment for your housewarming. The housewarming itself is enough ... the house to be inspected, chatted about, refreshments to be served, and so forth.

While of course it would be thoroughly correct to have dancing if you wish, I believe that you would find that this would switch the emphasis from the ... of the housewarming ... to the dancing.

And besides ... [illegible]

BABY'S PHOTOS HELP TRAP MAN

Through a freak circumstance and several Boston Evening American photographs Brighton police today held the man they claim abandoned an infant girl in Brighton on February 5.

A warrant for the [illegible]-year-old [illegible] father of seven children, charging him with abandonment, will be sought, Brighton police said.

Meanwhile a warrant was sworn out in Roxbury court charging [illegible] with a serious offense and naming a [illegible] Cambridge [illegible] deceased to be mother of the abandoned baby, who has been missing from [illegible] home since [illegible]

Capture of the man came about through an apparent [illegible] police call to police of North End station that a tenant in Nova Place, North End, was sealing windows of his room and he feared [illegible]

FIND PHOTOS, LETTERS

When police raced to the house they found an [illegible] man, who said he was sealing up the place because he feared someone would steal his personal savings certificates.

But what interested police more than his explanation was that when they entered the room they rushed to a table, seized three pictures and [illegible] typewritten sheets and was about to rip them across when stopped.

The officers were startled to see that the pictures were photostatic copies of last February's abandoned baby pictures, published in the Boston Evening American. The copies were excellently done and were protected with thin glass sheets as if to preserve them.

Reading the typewritten sheets police discovered they apparently were drafts of two letters by some man to some girl.

WOMAN AIDS INQUIRY

The man was taken to Brighton station. Mrs. Laura Wyman of Albert street, Roxbury, was taken to the station. After the abandoned baby had been found in February she had told police the cloth [illegible] and blankets protecting it had been bought by her from a man and woman who had lived downstairs in her house for two months as Mr. and Mrs. Green.

Mrs. Wyman said the North End man was one of the one who had lived in the Albert street house as Mr. Green. Then to amazement of the police she said she could take them to the house where Green lived in Mattapan as she had gone out there once with the girl.

Special Officer [illegible] Cul[illegible] drove her to an address in [illegible] street which proved to be [illegible] center in [illegible] of Mattapan. For no[illegible] was [illegible]

Famous Plays and Some Famous Players

[illegible] William Gillette created the title role in "The Admirable Crichton" and the artist Dearth in "Dear Brutus." Ethel Barrymore is remembered for the flighty mother of the adolescent twins in "Alice-Sit-by-the-Fire" and for many Vaudeville revivals of "The Twelve-Pound Look," known in these parts as a concession to American ignorance as "The Twelve Pound Sixty Dollars Look."

Barrie's Last Great Work and His First

The last play he wrote, as long ago as 1920, was "Mary Rose," done in this country by Ruth Chatterton. Last but not least it was Gillette's production of "Dear Brutus" that really introduced young Helen Hayes to her audience as the dream girl who didn't want to be a "might-have-been." This last, by the way, is probably Barrie's best known play over the radio.

The son of a poor Scotch weaving family, graduate of Edinburgh, intended for the ministry but drawn to literature, he worked for a time on a provincial newspaper, then free lanced in unfriendly London, writing only fairly successful novels and plays, "When a Man's Single" and "My Lady Nicotine," until he arrived with "Auld Licht Idylls."

There followed in rapid succession "A Window in Thrums," "Sentimental Tommy," "Tommy and Grizel," its sequel, and his most successful novel, "The Little Minister," the dramatization of which for Maude Adams launched him on his dramatic career.

He became one of the most successful and wealthy of British dramatists, the close friend of Bernard Shaw in the flats they both occupied in Chelsea; always shy, reticent and retiring, less publicised perhaps than any man of letters in a country where they are habitually more retiring than over here. A curious slant on his character was his friendships for young stage beauties whom he treated as protegees. The first one was Stella Campbell Chase, "the pink pajama girl," who was his first Peter Pan. During the war he wrote a revue called "Rosie Rapture the Pride of the Beauty Chorus" for the beautiful Gaby des Lys, and only last spring he wrote an unsuccessful piece about David and Goliath for the German actress, Elizabeth Bergner, known here for her pictures, "Catherine the Great" and "As You Like It."

The most fanciful and original of imaginations, the wittiest and most humorous in his treatment of character and situations, James M. Barrie, it seems to me, had that quality of writing which will keep people reading him long after he is gone.

CONTINUED TOMORROW

Has the clever and deserving Margery secured just the sort of a job she wants, or is Mr. Pipp right in his judgement of why Horace Mason was so quick to hire her?

BOY QUITS BREAKFAST TO END HIS LIFE

Halfway through his breakfast, Charles L. Hersey, son of Adams street, Dorchester, got up from the table today, went into a bedroom and blew his brains out with a shotgun.

As the sound of the shot [illegible] Nora Fahey, maid [illegible] of the Bicycle Engine Company, rushed into the room but there was nothing [illegible] police.

"I don't know why he should have done it," she stricken father said. "He's been in low spirits for the last three or four days, but I couldn't get him to tell me the reason.

"He seemed all right when I woke him up at about quarter to eight. He dressed and came downstairs for breakfast. He was right in the middle of it when he got up. He didn't say anything. Then we heard the shot.

"He was lying down in bed with the gun between his knees, the barrel in his mouth."

At breakfast with the boy and his father were Edwin, an invalid brother of the dead youth, and Henry Lambert, 20, a boarder and employe of the engine parts concern. The shop is on the first floor of the three story Hersey home.

The boy's parents have been separated for the last 10 years, police said. The mother, who lives in Park street, Dorchester, arrived at the Hersey home a few minutes after the tragedy. She collapsed [illegible] The body was taken to the [illegible] morgue.

BRADDOCK'S 32 YEARS SPEED END IN LOUIS BOUT

KAYO BLOW SPECTACULAR, SAYS RUNYON

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS
NEW ENGLAND'S GREATEST EVENING NEWSPAPER

AUSTEN LAKE

Champ's Legs Start to Buckle In Fifth Round

Chicago, Ill., June 23—In one of the most sanguinary fist fights in heavyweight history, another white dynasty of the prize ring came to an end after 22 minutes and ten seconds of action in Comiskey Park.

AUSTEN LAKE

The Negro was stalking his arm weary and blood smeared quarry like a predatory jungle cat, axing him down with a full right hand boom that keeled Braddock over backwards and spinning a little to his heart side. Jim fell stiffly, like an epileptic, in one rigid piece between heels and crown so that he lay motionless with his head curled in the hollow of an arm, unconscious of the referee straddling above his head and shouted numerals close to his ear. But it was apparent from the instant that Louis' glove shot his head back with a spray of mist flying from his hair, that numbers were unnecessary.

Braddock went as he promised he would, fighting till a black ... brain and intelligence had gone from what remained ... bleeding hulk.

It made ... sight as his corner crew hauled him by ... heels trailing to the corner stool, where they ... against a rope strand and sought to revive him ... and sloshings from a bucket sponge.

His head lolled back, and a crimson leer ran along the corner ... A welling drool dribbled from his lips and splotched ... His nose was split and there was a little red mouse over the brow.

Jim's 32 Years Begin to Show

IN THE HYSTERIA OF THE moment the Negro youth who was heir to the championship stood neglected in his own corner, except by his colored chaperons, while the ring company, including referee, physicians and judges, slapped and coddled Braddock back to consciousness.

The crowd in Comiskey's green crater stood silent, except for some minority yippings in the Louis areas, and for a brief spell it seemed that another major tragedy had been enacted.

B... gradually Jimmy awoke and sat with head bowed and a ... wretching his frame. And he left, stumbling ... between a score of sympathetic hands and into ... he welcomed as his end.

... and not until then, did the officials remember the ... of the ring and hoist the ... glove of the ... new champion, into the air ... record of the historic moment.

No champion has ever taken the battering and lacerations that Braddock did from the sixth round until the end. His 32 years began to show, and the difference between brittle age and the dancing, rubbery youth, showed clearly that the inevitable end of a legendary career could only be one of disintegrated ruin. Lady Luck, the lipstick jade, had transferred her caresses.

HOPE HAD COME OUT at the ... very ...

But suddenly he seemed to lean down to the ring apron and fetch it a powerful uppercut that carried Louis' jaw upward with the force ... and spun him on the blunt end of his trunks.

It was a clean knockdown in which Louis scrambled around on ... and knees rising hysterically and shaking his head to clear the mists from his brain.

He cuddled coweringly in an angle of the ropes, while Jimmy crowded in whipping punches off the nest of elbows behind which Joe had hid his head.

Fifth Is Beginning of End

BRADDOCK WAS MISSING many murderous swings which ... of anticipation from the crowd ... the ... stabbing his rapier left repeatedly through the ... and fourth rounds. The tide was never overwhelming.

Half way through the fourth the saddle of Braddock's nose began to grow thick, and reddened scuffs appeared on his temples.

His breath came in gusty gasps and, though he fought back savagely, the heft of his arms became increasingly heavy and the arc of his blows were shortened and slow.

... the exact blow that caused ... was not seen ... growing under ... nose ... and rubbing ... of his glove.

Beginning with the fourth round Braddock began to tire. This became quite ... Louis ... hit him with straight lefts to the face. There were occasions when Joe landed as many as six left jabs without getting hit in return.

When Louis had Braddock missing in the fourth and fifth rounds, he increased his own speed and got greater power behind his left hand jabs and hooks.

It was then only a question whether Braddock's courage would enable him to stand up before the terrific punishment being handed out by his younger opponent.

Louis suddenly ... let everything ... a right hand punch to the jaw. It was the perfect right hand punch that all champions try to attain.

The blow landed flush on Braddock's jaw and the former champion dropped to the canvas in a heap. He lay motionless as he was counted out.

CROWD GASPS INCREDIBLY

By DAMON RUNYON

Comiskey Park, Chicago, June 23 (US)—Joe Louis knocks James J. Braddock as cold as a frozen haddock in the eighth round to become the fifteenth heavyweight champion of the world since John L. Sullivan's time, and the second Negro to win the title.

A minute and ten seconds of the round have elapsed, when the sleepy-looking one time cotton field hand from Alabam ... Braddock's nose three times with a flipping, cutting ... then bangs a right hand flush to Braddock's chin.

Down goes the tall man from New Jersey as if hit on the head with a hammer. He falls ... the center of the ring, blood ... gushing out over the white canvas from his nose and mouth.

He never stirs, never moves a muscle, as the official time keeper stands up at the side of the ring and begins banging out the count on the edge of the platform. The referee little Tommy Thomas waving his right hand to the count over the prostrate Braddock.

Braddock's handlers swarm over the ropes and pick Jim up. They have to carry him back to his corner like a log of wood. One of the handlers ... a towel against the now ex-champion's nose and mouth trying to stop the blood.

Louis flipping left hand cuts Jim's mouth early in the fight as neatly as if the job had been done by a surgeon's scalpel. It is several minutes before they can revive Braddock, then he is assisted from the ring.

He goes away in a daze while behind him they are proclaiming the sleepy-looking ... champion of the world.

Braddock's 32 years ... and ... Max Baer ... stand as long as he lives.

Even when his legs are shaking under him and his wounds are ... he walks into Louis trying desperately to land the right hand that turned the tide for him many a time in the days when he was young.

When a fighter ...

Never seriously regarded as a champion as against some of ... old-time champions, Braddock nonetheless goes out in ... of a blaze of glory.

He shows not the ... fear of the brown terror ... heavyweight division, and for the space of a fleeting moment he has a knockout over Louis ... very grasp.

Sox Protest Landis Rule

Pilots Hit All-Star Verdict

By JOE CASHMAN

Our Red Sox are in open revolt against Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, high mogul of the majors.

[illegible]

[illegible] "Independence Day," Collins, as spokesman, points out, "will be celebrated on July 5 this year and we have a double header in New York that afternoon with the Yankees, who are managed by Joe McCarthy, who is also pilot of the American League All-Star team.

"We are most anxious to use Lefty Grove in one of those games but it's likely that McCarthy will name Mose a member of the All-Star squad which would automatically rob us of our best mound bet against the Yanks on the holiday.

"And that might not be the worst of it either. McCarthy, if he wishes, can keep 'Lefty' Gomez or Charlie Ruffing, or both, off the All-Star squad so as to use them against us.

We don't say all or any of this will happen, but we insist that an order making it possible is a bad thing for baseball."

Then Cronin gets his oar in.

"Why, it's ridiculous. The Sox are in danger of taking the worst licking, since we happen to be playing a doubleheader with the Yanks on that afternoon. But every club could be seriously affected.

"Imagine being forced to play holiday doubleheaders without pitchers like Mel Harder of the Indians, Tommy Bridges of the Tigers and Vernon Kennedy of the White Sox.

And, over in the other league, the Cardinals being required to get along without "Dizzy" Dean, the Dodgers without Van Mungo, the Pirates without Cy Blanton, while Bill Terry, by virtue of being the National League pilot, can keep Hubbell out of the All-Star game to use him on July 5.

"What I'd like to know is how long has an exhibition game been more important than a regular championship tilt."

SOX PENNANT MINDED

Yes, the Landis ears ought to be burning today what with all the [illegible] things the Sox are saying about him.

That the screeching will do any good is improbable. The Judge is a determined old guy. Once he makes up his mind he rarely changes it.

The Sox protest though shows that our lads have become very pennant minded.

If they didn't think they were going places they wouldn't risk incurring the Judge's displeasure. They wouldn't be caring especially who pitched for or against them in the Yankee stadium on July 5.

They're hollering because they're conceding themselves a real flag chance and they figure every game with the world champions all-important.

Their protest is more than justifiable.

Whether or no they are within hailing distance of the roof on July 5 they should be able to throw their full strength against the New Yorkers. Certainly, in order should make it possible for the opposition's manager to seriously handicap them and at the same time not materially weaken his own team.

It seems Landis has muscled for once.

But enough of the future.

The present finds the Sox opening an abbreviated two-game series with the second-place Detroit Tigers at the Fens this p.m.

WILSON vs. LAWSON

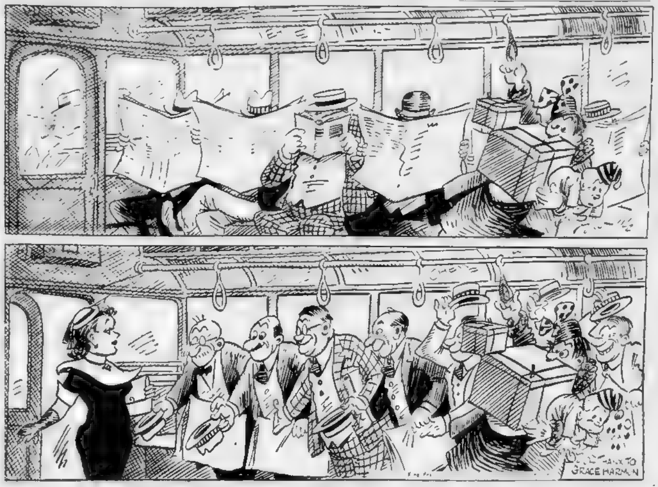
The rain that washed Tuesday's scheduled opener into an August doubleheader also washed out a southpaw pitching duel between our "Rube" Walberg and the Bengals' Jake Wade.

Jack Wilson is Manager Joe Cronin's hill nominee today. Del Baker, temporary Tiger boss, has switched to Roxy Lawson, who's the league's leading hurler with nine victories in 10 starts to his credit.

The Sox have won seven of their last eight. The invaders have won seven of their last nine.

Somebody must be stopped.

They'll Do It Every Time



Harvard, Yale In Second Tilt

Elis Take Opener, Title

More than 8000 spectators are expected to attend the second game of the 67th annual Harvard-Yale baseball series at Soldiers Field, Cambridge, this afternoon.

In the first game [illegible] at New Haven, Ted Horton, Yale's best [illegible] pitching ace, who defeated the Crimson 8 to 7 last year, duplicated his feat when he pitched the Blue to a brilliant 7 to 6 triumph. It was a [illegible] marathon which Horton won himself when he singled home Wargo with the winning run. The triumph gave Yale the Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League championship.

Today's game will mark the final appearance of Yale's great captain Larry Kelley at Soldiers Field. Kelley is one of the hardest hitting and best all-around players in college baseball.

McCarthy Wins

Comiskey Park, Chicago, June 23—Jack McCarthy of Boston, one of Jimmy Braddock's sparring partners, fought the best bout of his career when he defeated Bernie Bowman of Chicago in one of the four-round preliminaries to the title fight.

Bowman weighed 225 pounds and McCarthy scaled 190, but he out-punched and outboxed his Chicago rival all the way to win the judges' decision.

Other preliminaries resulted as follows:

Henry Cooper, 186½, Brooklyn, N. Y., defeated Alex Kettles, 198, South Bend, four rounds.

Max Roesch, 192, Dallas, Tex., defeated Steve Carr, 182½, Meriden, Conn., four rounds.

Max Zona, 202, Chicago, defeated Bill Irby, 180½, Eufala, Ala., four rounds.

Nathan Mann, 187½, New Haven, Conn., defeated Charley Massera, 184¾, Pittsburgh, Pa., six rounds.

Arturo Godoy, 181¾, Chile, defeated Tony Galento, 220, Newark, N. J., six rounds.

Ex-Champs At Ringside

Ringside, Chicago, June 22—Big Jess Willard, looking rather dapper and in fair physical shape, was the first former world's heavyweight champion to put in an appearance at the Braddock-Louis ringside. Dempsey and Tunney came in with special parties later and it was rumored that old Jack Johnson, first of his race to wear the imperial spangles, was in the offing somewhere, but up to the time the fighters entered the ring he hadn't put in an official appearance.

JUNIOR BIRDMEN OF AMERICA

A Nationwide Organization Devoted To American Youth in Aviation

Wing Commander's Note: This is the fourteenth of a series of articles written exclusively for the Junior Birdmen of America by the headquarters staff of the U. S. Army Air Corps. The series describes the day by day progress of a typical cadet at the Randolph Field Training Center at San Antonio, Tex.

ARTICLE 14

The Dodo Becomes an "Upper Classman"

Our ranchman has now been at Randolph Field for 14 weeks. He passed his final primary check on Wednesday and the following day watched the flying of a few of his classmates who, on account of sickness or other reasons had not yet completed their entire course.

JUNIOR BIRDMEN OF AMERICA

(Membership open to all boys and girls 10 to 21)

I wish to join the Junior Birdmen of America. I enclose a dime (well wrapped) for my gold wings and other membership materials.

Print name ....

Street address ....

City .... State ....

My Age Is Now .... (Give Your CORRECT Age)

Mail to Junior Birdmen, Boston American Wing, 100 Summer St., Boston, Mass.

The ranchman had completed both his flying and ground training. Tomorrow was recognition day for the "Dodoes." Friday morning all was hustle and excitement. Brasses were polished, clothes pressed, barracks inside and out put in "apple pie" order for the inspection preceding recognition. Ten o'clock came and the battalion of flying cadets fell in for their last formation.

After a thorough inspection the [illegible] of cadets were paraded in the cadet area. Formal publication of the new cadet officers, who were to replace the upper classmen who were now being graduated from the basic stage and transferred to the advanced school at Kelly Field was made.

Our ranchman was delighted that an upper classman also from Arizona, who had taken him "under his wing" and helped him out in his studies, was made captain of the company to which our ranchman was assigned.

Immediately after the publication of orders and the address by the commandant of the cadets, [illegible] was dismissed. At that [illegible] the "recognition" of the [illegible] by the upper classmen [illegible]. Previous to that time "Dodoes" and upper classmen had addressed each other as "Mister [illegible]." Now for the first time they used each other's first names [illegible].

The rest of the day was spent [illegible] getting ready for the big reception, [illegible] another very important occurrence on this most eventful day.

Our ranchman went to bed that night but could not sleep on account of the excitement. For the first time he was an upper classman at the Air corps training center.

The next article will describe the basic stage at Randolph Field

Nearly 200 ambitious Junior Birdmen have filed formal entries for the big Outdoor Model Plane Flying tournament to be held at Franklin Field all day next Monday to decide the championship of New England.

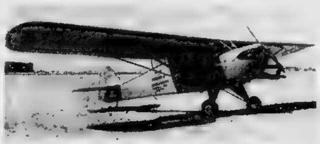
Most of these will be definitely competing for the silver trophy and the all-expense-paid trip to Atlanta, Ga., to participate in the national tournament in August. These who will be missing will be the few who, either live too far from Boston and lack means of reaching the site or were too inexperienced to finish the models to specifications required in the contest manual.

Thousands of Junior Birdmen as well as hundreds of adults are expected to watch the contest, however, as an aerial salute by navy, army and coast guard planes and the aircraft of commercial and private operators will be a striking feature of the program.

Planes from East Boston airport, Dennison airport and other airfields will dip their wings over the site and perform other maneuvers throughout the day. The huge Douglas Flagships on the New York-Boston run of the American Air Lines will be routed over Franklin Field that day.

The entire show will give spectators and Junior Birdmen the sight of more different kinds of aircraft than they ever supposed could be seen at one time.

All contestants and commanders of Birdmen flight units are being invited to bring their friends and relatives to enjoy the entertainment. A sound truck will provide a loud speaker system through which the spectators will be kept informed of the progress of the meet and will hear persons prominently identified with aviation.



This Taylorcraft will be one of a number of planes that will be sent from Dennison Airport by Manager Hal Martin to Franklin Field next Monday to join in the aerial salute to Junior Birdmen during their all day model flying contest to decide the New England championship for 1937.

ALLEN ANXIOUS

[illegible] likewise marks the next [illegible] networks Town Hall Tonight (WNAC) by Fred Allen. He will be replaced after next Wednesday evening program by Walter O'Keefe.

[illegible] is in anticipation in connection with his forthcoming vacation and declines to do any second guessing about another "mike" series in the fall.

He did say some time ago that he has in mind limiting his loudspeaker efforts to a half hour in the future. It's his idea that 30 minutes of one artist is enough for both the broadcaster and the air audience.

Another au revoir this evening will be heard when Lily Pons packs her pretties to take summer leave (WEEI) of the musicality where Andre Kostelanetz and his men make the melody, meaning from 9 to 9:30 p. m. Andre and the band boys will remain to continue the airings with guest soloists.

Genevieve Tobin from filmland takes a turn (WNAC) for the "Your Hit Parade" patrons at 10 o'clock tonight.

AS ALWAYS

John of the Barrymores, started his Shakespeare staging on the air Monday evening. His handling of "Hamlet" in a condensed version rates high printed praise.

Barrymore cuts considerable ice anytime he acts be the performance on a stage platform, in the movies or by radio. Certainly he gave his artistic all to the 45 minutes (WBZ) between 9:30 and 10:15 on Monday night.

It might have been ever so slightly more effective with listener imaginations, if he had allowed one of the better staff announcers to narrate the action between "scenes" of the broadcast. Milton Cross, for example.

As it was, John assumed a dual "mike" role, that of "Hamlet" and "The Ghost" and did so with dramatic dexterity worthy of his thespian renown. He is the stellar Shakespearean actor of this age, no mistake.

Radio rahlahs promise him in a "Richard the Third" portrayal next Monday evening, at the same time. Methinks the complete satisfaction with which his first feature registered would indicate that dialers aplenty will [illegible] swing over to tune in where he [illegible] forth.

EXELLENT EXAMPLE

Last night's corking ringside fight description by Edwin C. Hill and Clem McCarthy is one that should be recorded as typical of what a blow-by-blow report of a fistic feature should be.

McCarthy and Hill made it something consistently business-like, yet ever colorful.

It seemed as though two fellows that were cherished friends might be telephoning the details to each listener personally, with no foolish frills or synthetic hysteria.

Just a great job by co-workers who knew their scrap stuff and proved it.

* * *

Rumor with seemingly sound foundation has it that Ed Wynn is through with radio. This is doubtful, because Ed has said the same thing before. In fact a few funsters have now and then figured to forsake broadcasting. Wynn has just said "I Do" at the altar but has [illegible] does that constitute "adieu" to networking particularly if and when sufficient spondulix comes in sight.

FLEETING FLASHES

Comedy by Freddie Lightner has been booked with Jane Froman and Don Ross to replace the Jack Benny-Mary Livingstone doings when the latter go vacationing after next Sunday night. It will be Freddie's first big air break.

DON BUDGE AND HELEN JACOBS WIN

GRANT Takes Uphill MATCH

STANFORD GIRL ADVANCES

Wimbledon, Eng., June 23 (AP)—Don Budge, America's chief hope for the title, trounced George Patrick Hughes, British Davis Cup player, in the second round of the all-England tennis championships today, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2.

Gene Mako of Los Angeles, Budge's Davis Cup doubles partner, moved into the third round of singles with a 6-1, 6-2, 6-1 triumph over H. C. Fisher of Switzerland.

Frank Parker of Milwaukee [illegible] Budge and Mako in the third round [illegible] veteran Frenchman Jacques Brugnon 6-0, 6-2, 6-1.

MRS. ANDREWS WINS

Helen Jacobs, defending champion in the women's division, crushed Mary Neres of England 6-3, 6-1 to reach the fourth round. Still showing the effects of his recent illness, Bryan M. (Bitsy) Grant of Atlanta dropped a set to R. Marton of Great Britain but came through to the third round 6-2, 3-6, 6-3, 6-1.

Franz Kukuljevic of Yugoslavia eliminated the young Kansas City player, Hal Surface, in a five-set duel, 5-7, 6-3, 2-6, 6-3, 9-7.

Mrs. Dorothy Andrus of Stamford, Conn., and New York, reached the third round with a 6-3, 6-4 triumph over Billy Yorke of England.

YALE Crews Ready FOR CRIMSON

Gales Ferry, Conn., June 23 (AP)—Yale rowing coaches, apparently satisfied that their charges are in top form, sent the Blue crews through mere warming up drills today.

The varsity and junior varsity limbered up with a three mile row and returned to the training camp. The combination and freshman eights rowed a 1k distance and sprinted for a two-minute period at a 37 beat. The crews have one more day in which to train for the races against Harvard.

What the Stars Did

By the Associated Press

BILL LEE, Cubs—Blanked Giants 5-0 with seven hits.

MONTE STRATTON, White Sox—Shut out athletics with three hits.

CY BLANTON, Pirates—Fanned seven and allowed four hits in beating Bees, 4-1.

PAT MALONE, Yankees—Beat Browns, 8-5, with five hits in first start of year.

LEE GRISSOM, Reds—Blanked Phillies, 6-0, with six hits, fanning five.

FREDDY [illegible]SINGTON, Senators—Hit double and single, driving in five runs in 11-2 win over Indians.

Nectar II Wins English Classic

Newcastle-on-Tyne, England, June 23 (AP)—Sir Edmund Bru[illegible]'s Nectar II, starting at [illegible], today won the Northumberland plate over two miles, defeating Marshall Field's [illegible] owned Signature by a short head. Sir Abe Bailey's Weathervane three lengths behind Signature was third in the field of 11.

Signature started at 11 to 2 and Weathervane at 7 to 1. The winner is a four-year-old chestnut son of Hainbeck out of Clouds. The race was worth about $1500 [illegible].

JAB PAVED WAY FOR KNOCKOUT

By BOB CONSIDINE

Comiskey Park, Chicago, June 23 (US)—Yielding with the dignity of a great stout oak, James J. Braddock was cut down bit by bit and finally felled in the eighth round with one horrid right hand slash from the fists of Joe Louis.

[illegible]

But that one enormous right wasn't the punch that beat Jim Braddock here tonight.

It was only the logical climax to what went before, the reasonable conclusion to a job of tree-chopping that began with the twigs and ended with the trunk.

[illegible]

And he went in with half a hundred tramping short rights that [illegible] and numbed everything [illegible] the Irishman's heart.

Colored Fans in Distant Seats

Ringside, Chicago, June 22—From the work in press pews at tonight's Braddock-Louis fight a last glance around before daylight completely faded failed to show one colored face in the ringside sections. The colored fans were in some evidence in the farther reaches of the park but the ringside sections were completely alabastered. As a colored taxi driver explained it coming out to the fight: "Colored folks here haven't got the sort of money they have in New York, nor any way of getting it. We have the [illegible] here but we're all pulling for Joe just the same."

'Game,'—Louis

Chicago, June 23—"Jus' let me res'."

"Ah is goin' to sleep from now on," said Joe Louis in his dressing room after the fight. "Sleep and eat. That's mah dish. Ah is sick and tired of this training fo' a while. But don' make any mistakes.

"Anyone who wants a shot at this title kin have it. Ah'm goin' to be a fightin' champion—Schmeling or anyone else. Ah'll take 'em all."

[illegible]

"Jim was the gamest guy ah evah fought," he said. "That guy jes' don' know when he is licked. He hurt me in the first round with that knockdown punch. Sometimes ah was silly not to stay down and take a count. Jack (Blackburn) suah gave me the dickens for poppin' up like I did, but my mind was all addled with the force of that sock. Didn't know exactly what ah was doin'."

[illegible]

"Why should ah? Ah'm jes' at the top of the heap now. It's coastin' from now on. Ah'll rest and eat for a while and then ah'll start all over again. Guess the boys won't want no paht of me now but any that does—gits it."

[illegible]

"Ah heard them tellin' him to keep his hands up. That was jes' what ah wanted. Ah hit him in the stomach and the bout might jes' as well ended right then. Ah knew ah had him. He was done right then and there. That left opened him up and ah pitched a fast right to his chin. Curtains."

Not until the fifth, when Braddock began to settle back on his heels and make ineffective swipes like a badgered kitten, did Louis move in to make his kill.

He shot long range hooks to Braddock's head that landed with sickening regularity. And though courageous to the last and boring in, Braddock began to move with the uncertain leg twitchings of an alcoholic in the latter stages of his drams. Still, though Jimmy's knees were buckling in the sixth, Louis fought cautiously, on his outer fringe, sledging long rights and lefts and leaping back from the fumbling arc of the champion's swings.

Some Signs Business Is Slowing Down

Yet Retail Trade Statistics Record Substantial Gains Over a Year Ago

By B. C. FORBES

What's the explanation?

Almost every New York business man referring to the public tells me that his business has fallen off during the last two-three months. This includes hotels, barbers, restaurant owners, tobacconists, small merchants, taxi drivers, etc.

Yet retail trade statistics continue to record substantial gains over a year ago and reflect little or no recent slackening of activity. Most industrialists confide that demand is being satisfactorily maintained. Federal and state employment figures all reflect mounting prosperity.

B. C. Forbes

I confess that I am unable to solve this riddle.

May it be that it takes time for published statistics to catch up to happenings that subsequently dog not become generally known for weeks after it has set in?

Or is it that some lines of business are on the downgrade and others still flourishing?

Take, for instance, statements I obtained the other day while visiting automobile concerns in Michigan.

General Sales Manager W. F. Hufstader, of Buick, whose headquarters are in Flint, told me that June promises to be the big month of the year for this company, following retail deliveries in April and May of 45,580 cars. Factories are operating at capacity in an endeavor to cut down unfilled orders.

Sales this year have consistently exceeded last year's and promise to total at least 30 per cent over 1936. Notwithstanding six weeks' enforced idleness through strikes, Buick domestic deliveries of 1936 models totaled 133,594 units to June 1, contrasted with 109,262 last year.

At Lansing, President Charles I. McCuen, of Oldsmobile, showed me plants working full till, employing more than 11,000 workers. Not only so, but he pointed out large-scale construction activities, including a new engineering plant, a new drive-away building, a 50,000 square-feet storage building.

Incidentally, Mr. McCuen takes a philosophic view of labor trends. Long ago piece work was totally abolished, a bonus paid for night work and friendly relations established with workers. His attitude, like President Knudsen's of General Motors, is that his job is to make and sell as many automobiles as possible at a fair profit and to get along as harmoniously as possible with workers under any and all circumstances.

But, in common with almost every other automotive executive I've talked with this month, he declares unreservedly that the vast majority of wage earners are all right, that they want to be fair, that they want to produce a decent day's work, and that all the hubbub has been incited by not more than ten per cent of the working forces, mostly younger fellows receptive to radical preachings.

My guess is that a summer recession of sizable proportions will be experienced in consumer demand, in numerous industries, in securities.

What will happen in the fall will be influenced, first, by developments at Washington; second, by labor developments.

Private advices from Washington are to the effect that President Roosevelt does not relish the way Congress has been acting towards his "must" program, and that he plans to distract public attention from unfavorable events by issuing new statements and making speeches reflecting upon "rich tax dodgers" and unpatriotic industrialists, etc.

The prospect is that Washington will keep business on tenterhooks in coming weeks.

On the other hand, most employers express the hope, not to say belief, that labor agitations will soon subside under the weight of adverse public opinion.

So there you are.

FDIC Banks Show Larger Earnings

Washington, June 23 (INS)—Banks within the federal deposit insurance system last year had $1,564,000,000 gross earnings, an increase of five per cent over 1935, the FDIC reported today. These earnings resulted from current operations.

Net profits of the 14,000 institutions within the system amounted to $723,000,000, compared with $207,000,000 in 1935.

Radical Elements Today Have Much Political Power

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University

New York, June 23—It is probably worthwhile to recall that we have had serious labor troubles with radical leadership, rioting and bloodshed in other depressions. It will probably be a mistake, however, to think that the present condition is just like those found in the past.

The present labor troubles are more menacing than any in the past, because the radical elements this time have so much political power. They thus are able to threaten our whole social system.

This political power they get in part from their concentrated leadership and their organization of a new political party. They get part of their power, however, from the fact that the kind of politician now in control cares little for the principles which underlie our republican form of government and our profits system of economic organization.

The present labor crisis, therefore, deserves the earnest and non-partisan thought of all citizens. To that end, I am going to point out some ways in which scientific economic analysis throws light upon the problem.

* * *

To start with, we should understand that there are four distinct functions required in production, and that there is a distinct productive agency for each function. These are as follows:

(1) "Land," which furnishes materials and location.

(2) "Labor," which furnishes human energy.

(3) "Capital" (tools, machinery and buildings) which saves and aids labor, adding greatly to its productivity.

(4) "Enterprise," which decides what is worthwhile to do, and organizes and directs the production process, bearing the risk of business losses.

* * *

Not one of these "factors of production" can be eliminated. They must all exist, and be induced to function together if we are to maintain our industrial civilization and our standards of living. They must co-operate, in the broad sense of working together.

* * *

One of the problems today arises from the desire of some labor leaders to participate in "enterprise." They want to exercise the double function of representing labor and sharing in the direction of the enterprise, thus eliminating the distinction between employer and employe.

This has been tried in the form of "productive co-operation" in many cases and, as a general thing, is a proven failure. The few partial exceptions but illustrate the general failure of the attempts of laborers to be enterprisers. Evidently complete specialization is required for the best results. The enterpriser must bear the business losses. The laborer cannot and will not.

But now an organized labor party may be seeking to get control of business enterprise through political power! It finds certain politicians already far along the same road, and it joins forces with them.

The core to today's problem, from the economic standpoint, is the attempt of the labor leader to become a business leader by means of gaining political power. (Incidentally, dictatorship and destruction of American democracy are threatened. Economic democracy and political democracy go together.)

* * *

Two points stand out: (1) The first is that if the present business leaders are to retain their power to direct business, they must accept the rule of competition and forego all monopoly power. They must, furthermore, take a broad social point of view, so that they will not knowingly do either wasteful or unethical things. They must recognize that they are co-operating with labor and capital.

(2) The second one is that if the present labor leaders are to retain their power, they must recognize their responsibilities. They must see that the possibility of collective bargaining (which everybody now wants) is destroyed when labor organizations are not as responsible in every way as employers are.

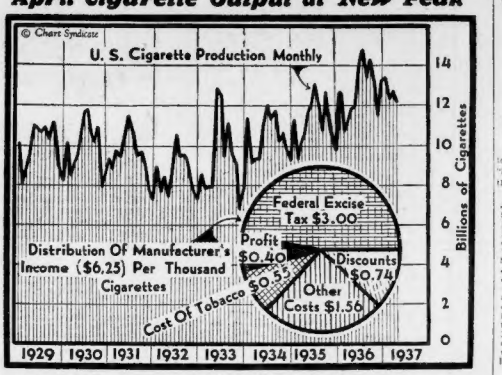
Just as business leaders must compete, so labor leaders must not monopolize labor. Just so, they must be "fair" in the means they use, resorting not to violent picketing, general strikes, or marching armies.

And just as business leaders should expect no special favors from legislatures, commissions, or courts, so should it be with labor leaders.

* * *

These things seem so obvious to me that I believe they will come to pass before it is too late.

April Cigarette Output at New Peak



Tobacco manufacturers in the United States turned out 12,210,000,000 cigarettes during April. Although this amount was the lowest for any month of this year, it was the biggest April total on record.

Production of cigarettes is measured by the Internal Revenue Bureau from tax paid withdrawals from warehouses. The highest monthly production was reached in July, 1936, when 14,801,000,000 cigarettes were made.

The "pie" on this chart shows what happens to the $6.25 the manufacturer receives for each thousand cigarettes. The figures, computed by Poor's, are based on actual reports for the six months ended March 31, 1937, the period which corresponds to the second half of the last crop year.

Volume of New Steel Business Continues Lower

New York, June 23 (AP)—The volume of new steel business continues to decline, even in quarters of the industry not affected by strikes, said "Iron Age" today in its weekly survey.

The trend was ascribed in part to seasonal factors and in part to "loss of confidence occasioned by the labor agitation."

"With the closing down of the Johnstown plant of the Bethlehem Steel Corp. by order of Governor Earle of Pennsylvania," said the Review, "and the postponement of the scheduled reopening of the Youngstown plant of Republic Steel Corp. and Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., when martial law was declared in Mahoning Valley by Governor Davey of Ohio, the amount of steel ingot production capacity that has been rendered idle by strikes is nearly 11,000,000 tons on an annual basis, or about 16 per cent of the country's total capacity. In addition, 90,000 steel workers are idle and total payroll losses to date are about $13,000,000.

"As the strikes enter their fifth week, and with hopes for a mutually satisfactory settlement as remote as ever, the volume of steel business being switched to companies not affected by strikes appears to be growing in volume, though it is not even now of large proportions, which is one indication that requirements of consumers with some exceptions, are lessening.

"Other developments pointing to a downturn in consumers' needs are requests for holding up shipments or extension of delivery dates beyond the time originally specified.

"The decline in new orders and reduction in backlogs find reflection in lowered operations at some plants where labor troubles are not a factor. The average for the country this week is estimated at 5 per cent, down 2 points from last week.

"The decline in steel scrap prices has been halted, temporarily at least, though there will be no signs of strength until the strikes are settled. The 'Iron Age' composite price for scrap remains at $17.08."

Active Expansion Encouraged by Trade Bulls

Most people overlook the fact that good business always is preceded by a period of inactive business, comments a Brookmire bulletin. Periods of hopelessness, low prices and declining business while disheartening are actually favorable if other underlying forces are propitious.

Unused credit resources today are greater than in any previous period of recovery, states the Brookmire Survey of Business Prospects, and coupled to a seasonal expansion of business in the fall should definitely encourage business men today.

The Survey points out the despair present during the bank panic in 1933 which immediately preceded a wide business expansion, and the gloom present in March, 1935 due to the "gold clause" decision, the N. R. A., and the failure to absorb the unemployed.

Even during the country's worst drouth and the dreaded franc devaluation in 1936, business continued to forge ahead, the report continues, and while times like these try the patience of every one, the outlook is definitely encouraging.

Foreign Exchange Steady on New French Set-Up

New York, June 23 (INS)—Formation of a new French cabinet under Camille Chautemps, with Leon Blum as vice premier and Georges Bonnet as minister of finance, served to steady the foreign exchange market today and changes in currency prices were fractional.

The futures franc market, however, continued weak as some doubt was expressed about as to whether the new popular front government would survive. While the spot franc ruled at 4.45⅝ cents, off ⅛ point from yesterday's close, and at about the level which prevailed most of the day, the forward quotation weakened to about 25 points for three-months' money, or a discount of about 22 per cent on an annual basis. In London, forward French money was at a discount of 3⅛ and 5⅛ francs per pound.

The British pound ruled ¼-cent higher at $4.94 9-16. The belga rose ⅛ point to 16.89 cents, the Swiss franc lost ⅛ to 22.92½, and the guilder was unchanged at 54.99.

Gold in London recovered part of yesterday's loss, being quoted at 140 shillings 6 pence, up one penny from yesterday. About $360,000 (or $1,800,000) was taken for arbitrage. The U. S. equivalent was one cent higher at $34.70.

Edison Declares Quarter Dividend

The directors of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston today declared a quarterly dividend of $2.00 per share, payable August 2 to stockholders of record July 10.

James V. Toner was elected treasurer of the company, succeeding the late Thomas K. Cummins, who died last month. Resolutions were adopted paying tribute to Mr. Cummins' long service as an officer and director of the company.

Kaffirs Lead Recovery in London

London, June 23 (INS) — A steadier tendency showed through minimum trading on the London stock market today. Kaffirs led the recovery on good advices from Johannesburg.

West Witwatersrand rose ½ to 8⅛ pds. and Anglo-American was 5-32 higher at 2 19-32 pds. Coppers, diamond shares, French bonds, international issues and textiles followed the market trend.

Oils, Domestic rails, irons and steels, electrical equipments, rubber issues and industrial issues were generally dull. British funds fell off as much as ⅜ with the 3½% war loan quoted at 100⅝ pds. The Dawes loan reacting to 62 and the Young issue to 45, were other losses in the bond section.

Subsidy Peril Seen by Myers

Ames, Iowa, June 23 (AP)—Governor W. I. Myers of the farm credit administration said in an address prepared for delivery today subsidized credit was not a substitute for fair farm product prices nor a cure for drouth.

Addressing the American Institute of Cooperation Myers said desire of farmers for "very low" mortgage rates of interest, which may be had only through continued subsidies, was the "greatest single peril to the continued existence of the cooperative farm credit system."

Lone Star Gas

Lone Star Gas Corp. declared a dividend of 20 cents on the common, payable August 21 to stock of record July 21.

Bar Silver

London, June 23 (AP)—Bar silver steady, up 1-16 at 19 13-16d. (Sterling price equivalent to 44.09 cents).

Discusses Foreign Trade Before Retailers

Chicago, June 23 (AP)—G. R. Berkey, New York traffic manager for the American Express Co., said yesterday the "absolute maximum imports required by our factories demand the import of more than a billion dollars of raw material each year."

"And," he said, in discussing foreign trade before the National Retail Dry Goods Association convention, "we have to get that money back or we will go broke."

Berkey said foreign trade was and must be operated over a "double track line." Unless the traffic operates in both directions, the equipment will soon be at one end of the line and there is no service in either direction, he said.

The speaker said American foreign trade in 1935 averaged more than 16 million dollars for each of the 300 business day, and added:

"When a country does such a vast business and on the right side of the ledger, if there is anything wrong with the country it can scarcely be from an import and export standpoint."

Confectionery Sales Increase

Sales of confectionery and confectionery products during May were $17,228,896, or 17.6 per cent above the like month of last year, the Department of Commerce reported.

For the period from January to June 1, this year, these sales totaled $103,762,253, or 11.7 per cent over the like period of 1936.

R. R. EARNINGS

Gains Still in Prospect

New York, June 22—In spite of the admitted uncertainties as to traffic, wages, rates, and pensions, there appears good reason to look for a marked improvement in railroad earnings this year, observes the Standard Statistics Company, of New York, in a current survey.

Although strikes in steel and other industries, which have reduced railroad traffic in recent weeks, may extend into the second half year, prospects for railroad traffic generally are not unfavorable. The level of traffic through the remainder of the year will depend largely on the two factors of industrial labor relations and farm crops.

As to the labor situation, it is obviously too early to tell how soon a settlement can be reached, but there may well be a release of dammed-up business when production is resumed in strike-bound plants, and there is reason to hope for a considerable increase in movement of industrial raw materials and manufactured products later in the year. It is significant that, despite the effect of strikes, traffic thus far in June has held above 1936 levels.

The Federal Crop Reporting Board looks for a 25 percent increase in winter wheat this year, as against a 1936 crop of nearly 100 per cent below normal. Other crops are generally in correspondingly improved condition, although the outlook can change substantially before crops are harvested.

Because the margin of improvement in traffic in May and June was less favorable than in earlier months of the year, while several important roads have expanded maintenance programs, the gain in net income for the first half year may be less close to that indicated for the first four months of 1937. For the period, surplus after charges (tentatively estimated) was about $18,600,000, against a deficit of over $41,500,000 a year ago, indicating an improvement of better than $46,000,000.

For the second half an estimate of net income around $60,000,000 better than a year ago appears entirely reasonable. This would make the improvement for the year some $120,000,000, raising full year net to about $300,000,000, as compared with $180,000,000 in 1936.

U. S. Smelting Declares $2 On Common

Directors of the United States Smelting, Refining & Mining Co. declared a dividend of $2 a share on the common stock and the regular quarterly dividend of 2¾ per cent (87½ cents) on the preferred stock, both payable July 15 to stock of record July 2.

The common dividend compares with $2 a share paid on April 15 this year, $4 paid on January 15 this year and a similar amount paid on July 15 a year ago.

Estimated net earnings of United States Smelting for five months to May 31, 1937, were $2,613,184, compared with $2,116,394 in the corresponding five months a year ago.

Earnings were equal after preferred dividends to $3.65 a share on 426,765 shares of common stock, against $2.73 a share in five months of 1936.

Production Under Last Week

New York, June 23 (AP)—Production of electricity in the United States in the week ended June 19 was 2,213,783,000 kilowatt-hours, slightly under last week's figure of 2,214,168,000 kilowatt-hours but 11.3 per cent larger than production of 1,989,798,000 kilowatt-hours in the same week last year, the Edison Electric Institute reported today.

The contra-seasonal decline, occasioned in part by industrial halts due to labor difficulties, brought the Associated Press index of power production, with 1929-30 taken as 100, down to 119.8 from 121.5 in the previous week. The index, which is adjusted for seasonal and long-term trend, stood at 110.5 a year ago.

The range for recent years follows:

	1937	1936	1935	1934	1933
High	121.5	118.8	105.5	97.4	91.9
Low	110.3	102.2	94.1	91.9	80.2

The institute's report showed the following percentage increases in major geographical regions: New England 10.3, Middle Atlantic 11.5, Central Industrial 12.2, West Central 2.1, Southern States 13.1, Rocky Mountain 13.4, Pacific Coast 6.8.

Recovery Move at New High Level

The number of persons employed in the United States rose from 41,710,000 in March to 41,958,000 in April, a new high for the recovery movement, according to the Alexander Hamilton Institute.

Persons unemployed declined from 9,609,000 in March to 9,391,000 in April. The unemployment figure, however, did not quite reach the low of last December because of the increase in the supply of workers since that time.

In April there were 4,416,000 more persons employed than in the same month last year, while unemployment was lower by 2,056,000.

Washing Machine Shipments Up

Factory shipments of household washers in May totaled 160,746 units, or 10.8 per cent over May, 1936, according to the American Washing Machine Manufacturers' Association.

Washers shipped in the first five months of this year aggregated 806,255, or 13.49 per cent more than in the same months last year.

West Point Mfg. 5-for-1 Splitup

Stockholders of West Point Manufacturing Co., at special meeting at Langdale, Ala., voted to split the stock five-for-one, reducing the par value from $100 to $20 per share.

There were 82,000 shares authorized, of which 72,000 were outstanding. Latter will now be changed into 360,000 shares.

Sears, Roebuck Sales Gain Holds

Chicago, June 23 (AP)—Sears, Roebuck and Company reported today gross sales for the fifth period from May 22 to June 18 totaled $49,700,435, an increase of 20.6 per cent compared with the corresponding period last year.

Sales for the first five periods of the current fiscal year which began January 30 totaled $213,746,125, an increase of 20.1 per cent compared with the corresponding 1936 period. Both of these figures were records for the periods.

Output of Autos Is Slowed

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

Production reports from the big automobile manufacturing centers now available for the current quarter reveal that few companies are experiencing the decisive expansion in sales noted last year. Ford is showing a good gain while Packard, Nash and Willys figures point to improvement for the period. The lull in output may be attributed for the most part to strike interruptions or a slackening of demand. In some instances both played a part in curtailing production.

The chief value of these production reports is in forming advance opinions of probable earnings for the second quarter. With prices holding at or close to 1936 levels increased production by the big makers is absolutely necessary to offset the lower profit per unit. With the needed market expansion lacking, except in the directions noted, it almost goes without saying that the outlook is for smaller profits. Our advice here many months ago was to favor the secondary companies, of which Packard seemed most promising, and it is reiterated now that the profit outlook for the quarter is clearer.

* * *

The lowering of the discount rate on bankers acceptances this week has tended to confuse the ideas of many non-professional observers regarding the trend of short term money rates. For most of the past year the trend has been upward and the action of important New York city dealers is difficult to understand. The real situation is that there is an ample supply of funds confronting dealers who have found it hard to obtain acceptances from the banks. By cutting their discount rate from ⅛ to 1-16 per cent they are in effect saying they are willing to pay commercial bankers more for their bills.

* * *

The lowered discount simply is an inducement to sell. And the glut of investment money responsible may be traced to the building up of foreign balances in New York which accompanied the influx of gold. At the same time domestic balances that might ordinarily find employment in the high grade investment mediums probably have become swollen during recent declining markets.

* * *

As one Boston broker says it is almost too good to be true but it does look as though the markets would weather the strike storm after nearly foundering. A slight change in the complexion of news from the steel centers could now prove enough to move prices higher. After the movement of prices in a tight range for eight sessions a good technical rally in here would create a fairly reliable looking base. But even so we cling to previous advices to unload those issues on which there is any question of earning power. The funds to be held for later use on a secondary reaction.

* * *

When the complete figures for this week are in the charts of individual groups they will tell a better story. Those that are really acting better than market will show up more clearly. Particularly from the standpoint of saucering out. The latter will be favored here for the simple reason that a group able to saucer out during recent unsettlement is obviously in a desirable position.

* * *

Notebook: du Pont's large investment in General Motors may act as a drag on earnings but chartwise the stock appears to be making a good base . . . Over-the-counter brokers are quite enthused about estimated 1937 earnings of $4 per share for Art Metal Construction . . . Lion Oil attracted a statistician's eye by its selling price . . . But when he was through looking the situation over he could not justify the price from an earnings standpoint . . . Columbian Carbon's profits are said to be running 25 per cent ahead of 1936.

MARKET Holds FIRM

MILD SELLING CUTS GAINS

New York, June 23—Mild selling chipped away part of an early stock market gain today. For a time U. S. Steel was up more than 2, but the lackadaisical response of the rest of the list seemed to encourage offerings and shares slid irregularly under their early gains of fractions to a point or so.

Gainers most of the time were Bethlehem, Republic, American Rolling Mill, General Motors, Chrysler, Allis Chalmers, Goodyear, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Anaconda, Kennecott, Cerro de Pasco, American Smelting, Pullman, Texas Corporation, Northern Pacific and Atlantic Coast Line.

Lacking stamina were Santa Fe, Great Northern preferred, Pennsylvania and New York Central.

Bonds were steady. The French franc was down, the pound sterling unchanged. Wheat and corn were droopy, cotton higher.

Philip Morris ran up briskly but was erratic later. Western Union slipped abruptly to a new 1937 low. Its drop, analysts said, reflected Wall Street fears higher costs may impair earnings.

CURRENT TOPICS

In the financial community considerable attention was given the reported increase in shifting of steel business to plants not affected by strikes.

That this switching is not of large proportions, "Iron Age" said, "is one indication that requirements of consumers, with some exceptions, are lessening."

"Other developments pointing to a downturn in consumers' needs are requests for holding up of shipments or extension of delivery dates beyond the time originally specified," the reveiw said.

Followers of power shares pointed out the slight drop in electricity production in the week ended June 19 was contra-seasonal and attributed this in part to industrial strikes.

The French franc opened off .00½ of a cent at 4.45⅞ cents, the pound sterling up ⅛ of a cent at $4.94 9-16.

May Auto Sales

Factory sales of automobiles manufactured in the United States during May totaled 516,890 vehicles, compared with 460,512 in May last year, the Department of Commerce reported.

London, June 23 (AP)—Bar gold advanced 1d to 140s 5d. (Sterling price equivalent to $34.71.)

Business Leaders Busy

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

Copyright, 1937, by Universal Service

New York, June 23 — In spite of the epidemic of dramatic episodes occuring in industrial relationships recently, thoughtful management continues its long term planning. Business leaders are seeking to increase the number of incentives given to workers.

Instead of dropping insurance and pension plans after government entered this field through the Social Security Act, a substantial number of progressive corporations have taken steps to supplement social benefits with additional private benefits.

This has been in accord with experience in Great Britain and other countries with longer experience with social insurance. Likewise, the recent action of American corporations is in harmony with action recommended by seven friends of social security who comprised the non-partisan Social Security Commission sponsored by the Hearst newspapers, which recommended:

"We feel it important for the public to understand that the old age and unemployment benefits contemplated, with whatever adjustments may be desirable, will still provide little more than minimum wages intended to obviate destitution for those withdrawn from the productive process. Accordingly, many ambitious persons, desiring a better standard of living, will undertake to supplement through private savings and insurances the benefits provided under the law. In addition, employers should be encouraged, wherever practicable, to increase social security old age benefits with voluntary pensions."

Most of the progressive companies, which for years have run their own pension plans, have been modifying them to include social security. In addition, other firms are entering the field.

As a result, there has been a great stimulus recently to private pension activity. An officer of one of the principal pension consulting firms in the country tells me:

"We have never been as busy as during the past year."

* * *

Governmental activity has focussed increasing attention on the desirability of economic security.

Likewise, participation by the Government in war risk insurance business during the war helped to make the American people insurance conscious, and laid the basis for a vast expansion in the business of the private companies. In helping the men to think in terms of a $10,000 policy, the Government widened the demand for insurance. Its ballyhoo broke down public apathy, and every one writing insurance felt the stimulus.

* * *

Typical of the social activities voluntarily entered into by employers has been the adoption this month of a retirement plan by a substantial Pennsylvania manufacturer, who previously had a group life, a group sickness and accident, and a corporation unemployment plan. The purpose of the retirement plan is so to co-ordinate benefits with those contemplated under the Social Security Act that an employe will receive an annual income from both sources equal to approximately 2 per cent of his total earnings during the period in which he will have been a member of the plan.

* * *

Under this plan the company will contribute somewhat more to the cost of the plan than the employes.

* * *

In this and similar plans, the premiums of both employer and employe are paid to a private insurance company, which assumes contractual obligations to pay out annuities or death benefits.

* * *

Despite strikes and other dramatic incidents, thoughful employers, in entering long term benefit schemes, have registered their confidence that the American way will persist without radical change through the decades.

* * *

Incidentally, one modern employer, in a consultation concerning his own expectations of a strike, was reviewing the incentives which his company has given to employes. An astute advisor said to the chief executive:

"They are all fine, but the men have gotten used to them and now perhaps take them for granted. It would be straregic to add a fresh incentive at this juncture."

NEW Production PEAK

STEEL MILLS IN SOUTH BOOMING

Birmingham, Ala., June 23 (AP)—Alabama's steel and iron industry reached a new production peak today while labor difficulties hampered operations in other sections. Steel production has held steady at 96 per cent of capacity for several weeks, and pig iron output hit 100 per cent with the blowing in of the last idle blast furnace in the state today.

Industrial sources were quick to deny, however, that labor strife in other steel and iron centers had any bearing on the local situation. They contended that orders from the district's regular customers provide more than capacity production.

The Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company, U. S. Steel subsidiary and largest of the South's steel producers, blew in the last of its eight furnaces in Birmingham to bring pig iron output to the 100 per cent level. The area has 18 blast furnaces, all in operation for the first time since 1928.

Pig iron production in 1936 was 2,061,534 tons, more than double the depression low, and forecasts call for at least 2,500,000 tons this year.

Last year's steel output of slightly less than 1,500,000 tons was virtually certain to be surpassed and the 1926 peak of 1,600,000 tons also likely to be left far behind.

T. C. A. said employment was "something over 16 per cent above 1929" and payrolls even further ahead.

Gulf States Steel Company, new subsidiary of Republic Steel Corporation with plants at Gadsden, Ala., was unaffected by the strike and operating at capacity.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, June 23—A $1,000,000 contract for 8-inch pipe has been awarded National Tube Co., by Atlantic Refining Co., for a 213-mile extension of line of the Keystone Pipe Line Co., from Williamsport, Pennsylvania to Buffalo, it was announced today.

An increase of 10.6 per cent in factory shipments of household washers in May compared with the same month last year was reported by the American Washing Machine Manufacturers Association today. Shipments totaled 160,246 units. In the first five months washers shipped aggregated 806,255, an increase of 13.4 per cent over all of last year.

Mass. Investors Trust

Trustees of Massachusetts Investors Trust declared a quarterly distribution of 24 cents a share, payable July 20 to shareholders of record June 30. This payment compares with 22 cents distributed in the preceding quarter.

LIVER TROUBLE

Mrs. Jennie Honan: 234 Lowell St., Somerville, Mass., says: "For 9 months I had suffered from liver and intestinal trouble. I had a pain in my liver and back. I had no strength and no appetite, headaches and lost 14 lbs. in weight in three weeks. I had nine doctors who prescribed for me but who were unable to help me. I read of Dr. Walsh and had him treat me. After the fourth treatment I began to feel better. Now I feel better than I have for a year. I am telling all my friends about Dr. Walsh and what he did for me. I am making this statement with the hope that others who suffer as I did may profit by my experience and go to Dr. Walsh for a cure." Signed, Jennie Honan.

The "World Bank" Trap

THE DRILLING and boring into the stone wall of the Johnson Act, which forbids the United States to loan money to debt-defaulting nations, has apparently begun anew with the appearance in this country of Premier Paul Van Zeeland of Belgium.

According to a wireless dispatch to the New York Times on June 17 from Basle, Switzerland, the plan to raise more money in this country now centers around the Bank for International Settlement at Basle.

This is sometimes called "The World Bank" and is a sort of international clearing house.

The scheme as hatched, according to the dispatch, by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, German economic minister; Former Premier Blum, of France, and Premier Van Zeeland, of Belgium, is to invite the United States to make LARGE DEPOSITS OF MONEY in this bank. The bank lends it out, like any other bank, to whom it pleases.

As the bank is controlled by the debt-welching nations of Europe and the Johnson Law drillers and borers, of course they will "BORROW" the American taxpayers' money as fast as we can deposit it.

PREMIER VAN ZEELAND, questioned on his arrival in this country about this World Bank scheme to snare our billions, said:

"No one is entitled to say anything. Nobody knows anything."

Mr. Van Zeeland is mistaken. WE KNOW A LOT—that's the reason the Johnson Law was enacted.

Who'll Be the Lucky Few?

THE South Boston and Cambridge Federal housing projects nearing completion, Uncle Sam's problems as a landlord begin locally.

Ironically, his worries are the private landlord's in reverse. While the average house owner often has considerable difficulty in obtaining tenants, Uncle Sam's big job consists of turning away as many as nineteen of the twenty families that want to live in each apartment.

The reason, according to housing authorities, is obvious. The money invested in the project would require a private owner to charge a rental of twelve dollars a week for a room.

But the government, marking off 45 per cent of the cost at the start as a free grant and lowering the interest rate on the remainder, is able to rent a WHOLE apartment for less than ten dollars a week.

Just how Uncle Sam is going to decide who will be his fortunate tenants and who will not is beyond us. It's his problem.

But all of us will have to admit that the lucky South Boston or Cambridge project dweller can boast of a distinction as great almost as that of those who achieve a "Blue Book" listing.

At least, he can consider himself "exclusive." For in housing projects as in the "Blue Book," not everybody gets in.

Relieve the Congestion

THE denunciation of Massachusetts prison overcrowding by four members of the Governor's Executive Council contains nothing new.

At least five similar reports have been made to other Governors in the past twenty years.

It is therefore time that measures were taken to relieve the congestion, in State Prison especially.

The Council members are entirely right when they cite the need of rehabilitating first offenders by sending them to Concord.

This reformatory, because of the new buildings and modern facilities, is today able to offer the best program for prisoners of any institution in the State.

It must, of course, harbor the more or less habitual criminal, but there is no reason why he cannot be segregated from the first offender.

In dealing with our prison system, use of such words as "unsafe," "tragic blunders" and "economic failures" will not accomplish anything—either for the investigators or for the men whom we are trying to reform.

Our officials would be wiser to resolve to make the most of the institutions we now have and to plan for the time when we can afford others.

He Wouldn't Say 'I Quit'

THERE'S inspiration for every boy and girl in the achievement of Richard S. Murphy of Dorchester.

Stricken with tuberculosis a year and a half ago, Richard went to Mattapan Sanatorium. He was one of 600 patients. But in his nature was something that made him more than "one of 600."

Like Mohammed who went to the mountain when the mountain refused to go to Mohammed, Richard said:

"If I cannot go to school, the school will come to me."

It did, through the medium of books. Daily, during the long months on his hospital cot, he studied, learned all that time permitted him to learn.

And now comes his reward—a diploma from English High School and a commendation from Headmaster Walter F. Downey.

Richard, we know, will recover his health and enjoy an active life. The world needs the combination of COURAGE and FIGHT that makes boys like him carry on when others say "quit."

Room for Improvement

THE palm goes to New Hampshire.

No children may toddle to the altar in that State. Its marriage law—20 years for boys and 18 for girls—contains the highest age in the Union. So says the United States Children's Bureau in Washington.

We salute the Granite State. Any State that prevents cradle weddings, such as those tolerated in Tennessee, deserves praise.

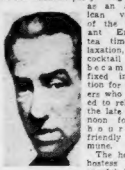
However—and this is not so much to New Hampshire's credit—Gretna Greens do a thriving business along its borders.

These "wed-quickly-marts" are something for the New Hampshire Governor and Legislature to worry about. If there is anything worse than a child marriage, it is a hasty one.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

New York, June 23—The metropolis seems finally in revolt at the cocktail party. Beginning as an American version of the pleasant English tea time relaxation, the cocktail party became a fixed innovation for workers who wanted to relax in the late afternoon for an hour of friendly commune.



O. O. McIntyre

The host or hostess was careful in selections and only those who hixed agreeably were invited. While the cocktail term was used the beverage was mostly tea and coffee. They were small and intimate gatherings, without the vicious gossip now so pronounced.

And lately the cocktail party has become something of a racket for personal exploitation and publicity stunts. A ladder up for hangers on and social moochers. More often than not a collection of phonys one would not care to meet anywhere and certainly not in the privacy of a home.

Such promiscuous get-togething became dark soup for a spurious nobleman and sundry pick-thanks to make contacts in an aura of respectability. Many gyp games resulted from such meetings. Today there are many New Yorkers who wisely thumb down on all cocktail party invitations.

Memories: The rock spring house with crocks of cool sweet milk. Baking bacon finds in the oven. A bird's nest in the pocket of an old coat hanging on a picket fence. The little brown hen that came in to lay an egg in the parlor sofa. The palm leaf fan with the black calico edging. Shoving the creaky willow chair to the breezy corner of the porch for grandpa.

Sudden thought: Martha Raye's topping a high note suggests opening a barn door on a frosty night.

The growth of science fiction for the young is one of the upward trends of successful authorship. Boys from 12 to 18 have become glutions for such stories. In the same manner that grown ups of today went for the King Brady, Frank Merriwell, Frank Reade, Jr., and Nick Carter paper backs in their youth.

The demands for the new type of fiction are strict. The science must be accurate as to basic facts, but for the story, of course, the imagination may run riot. The literary standards and accuracy of science, chemistry, histology and physics laid down by the editors are rigid. Among the crack science fiction writers is John Taine, who is really Prof. Eric Bell of California Institute of Technology.

And there are many other famous scientists writing under pseudonyms. The amazing younger generation is stepped with scientific terms.

I was conscious of this the other day when Ray Long began to expand interestingly on the topic of electrons whirling in cohesive harmony and the smallness of little Nega, the negative electron. He is not a mental prodigy but just the average alert boy of today in the 16-year-old bracket.

Twilight: After summer has knitted her stitches of color, no touch of Nature is more enchanting than that shaggy haze of violet that sifts over Central Park at sundown. In all directions the tall spires take on a breathless gleam. Pierre's windows in the windless summer stillness flower into yellow buttercups. Hampshire House's sleeping towers might be marbled stairs to paradise. Across the meadow lie shimmering pools of shadows like gentle pansies open to the sky. The Essex tower might be an enormous tulip trembling slightly in a vagrant breeze.

Then of a sudden the necklace of park lights burst into sunburst glows. Southward the pink streak from the Broadway electric fires rainbows the illusive pot of gold.

Joe Cook brought to the radio a scrumptious bit of remembering when presenting Connie Mack and Mrs. John McGraw recently. McGraw is still Mack's idol and has been since McGraw's star days on the Baltimore Orioles. McGraw won ten pennants and Mack cares his ambition lying to equal the McGraw record. Almost everyone knew McGraw as a lawyy bulldog of a scrapper in action but a warm and sentimental friend in mufti.

I had never met anyone who had seen or talked to Mrs. McGraw. Her voice over the radio suggested a soft spoken, cultured lady who knows every angle of the game. She is a devoted friend of Mack's as was her husband, although long bitter rivals on the baseball diamond.

Ted Woodward, in driving through a West Virginia berg, pulled up at the curb and asked a local about a hotel up the street. "Is it American or European?" he inquired. "American," snapped back the questioner. "In fact the owner was born right here in this town."

American deportation laws, to get rid of alien criminals, must be STRONG ENOUGH to accomplish their purpose.

The principle that an alien admitted to this country should abide by its laws or GET OUT is not debatable.

But the laws applying this principle must give the authority to responsible law enforcement agencies to MAKE THE PRINCIPLE EFFECTIVE.

Our present immigration laws do not give this necessary authority.

Undesirable aliens and CRIMINALS are able to stay in America in defiance of its laws.

The Reynolds-Starnes immigration bills pending in Congress would make the test of an alien's right to STAY in America HIS BEHAVIOR WHILE HERE.

Laws of that type would increase the security of HONEST AMERICANS and of HONEST ALIENS in their enjoyment of the liberties which residence in America confers.

Listen, World!

These "bad breaks" of yours—why go on crying about them? Suppose, instead, you consider what causes them.

Elsie Robinson

Bad breaks don't "just happen." Lucky people aren't an accident. WE MAKE OUR OWN BREAKS. . . . WE SELECT OUR OWN LUCK. You don't believe it? Listen!

Suppose you were going to make a chair—how would you start? Would you start by assembling wood, hammer, nails?

No. You'd start making a chair by thinking about it.

You'd begin, first, with a desire to make a chair.

You'd see that chair in your mind. You'd select its design, choose its materials, rejecting all other plans, designs and materials, concentrating completely on the one thing you prefer.

Before you used any tools or drew a plan, YOU'D BUILD THAT CHAIR IN YOUR IMAGINATION AND THE FINISHED PRODUCT WOULD BE SIMPLY A COPY OF THE THING YOU HAD BUILT IN YOUR MIND.

That's the way a chair—or any other material object—is made. That's the way books are written. That's the way our life is planned. Everything we have or do first exists in the mind, before it is translated into matter or action.

Before anything can happen, it must first be THOUGHT—it must first be CHOSEN.

OUR OWN CREATION

Instead of making that chair you could have made any one of millions of other objects, couldn't you? But you decided to make that chair.

Out of all things you might have desired, you desired that chair.

Out of all the materials you might have used, you chose those that fitted that chair.

WE MAKE OUR LUCK IN EXACTLY THE SAME WAY.

Luck isn't an accident—nor does it start with an individual decision. We CHOOSE our luck. We choose it by the quality of our thoughts, the nature of our desires and decisions.

And those thoughts and decisions begin "shaping our destiny" long and long before the culminating incident.

While we are still babies we begin making choices which will bring us good luck or bad. How? By THINKING good luck or bad. By EXPECTING good luck or bad. By HOPING FOR LUCK OR FORTUNE or EXPECTING BAD FORTUNE.

Life is largely what we make it. And we make it by our choices and expectations. There are two sides to everything—good or evil. There are the makings of pleasure or pain in every situation.

Which will we expect? Will we look for the pleasant and profitable side of life? Or will we give way to our sour suspicion? On our answer, hangs our fate.

All these years you have been thinking of Life as something that happened OUTSIDE you. But those things which happen outside you are only echoes—or copies—of what is going on inside the human spirit.

THE REAL LIFE HAPPENS WITHIN. YOUR GOOD OR BAD FORTUNE IS DETERMINED WITHIN.

It is determined by what you THINK . . . by what you EXPECT . . . by what you DECIDE.

TRY IT FOR WEEK

Suppose you make an experiment for just a week—then write me the results. A bargain? Let's go!

For just one week, put every form of FEAR and HATE away from you, to the best of your ability. Stop worrying . . . stop being suspicious and apprehensive . . . resentful or remorseful. Don't make a pest of yourself by being a Pollyanna.

Don't "the a little ray of sunshine when everyone else wants to sit in the shade". But force yourself to see the sunny side of things and people, instead of the sour.

LOOK FOR GOOD SIGNS. EXPECT GOOD FORTUNE. Then write me the results. I'll be waiting.

That's That

Senator Borah's observation that the past dose war debts saved the United States from foreign nations would pay next year's revenue costs is timely.

These defaults total a little more than one and one-half billion dollars. And one and one-half billions are what the Administration is asking for relief during the next fiscal year.

Because foreign nations will not pay what they owe us, American taxpayers have to pay it out of their pockets.

Communists denounce Fascism. Fascists denounce Communism.

In either case, it is a matter of "the pot calling the kettle black."

Both of these isms are deadly poison to democracy.

There may be some difference in the brand of tyranny they offer for, whatever the name, all destroys the individual freedom to which the American people are accustomed.

In the last year at least 131 persons have been executed in Russia for alleged anti-government activities.

The president of one of the 11 Socialist "republics" constituting the Soviet Union recently committed suicide. He had been denounced as an enemy of the government.

If he hadn't taken his own life he probably would have been executed by a firing squad.

A successful business. Walter E. Holman of Portland, Ore., suggests in his annual report as worthwhile apprenticeship in publicity in the World War. It had a great advantage over Belgovernment Re-organization that the New Deal is spending $500,000 a year on the salaries of press agents. While there is no provision under the law for such employe they are carried on the rolls as "information service representatives."

Edwin C. Hill

Remote and forgotten is the crude press agent who faked a story about the actress who had a pet clam which used to climb up on the bed and lick her face to wake her up in the morning. Also the breezy chap who capitalized on his friendship with newspapermen. "Listen, Joe," he was wont to say, "this yarn stands up like a derrick in a front yard and nobody gets a kick at it but you." Small time retail stuff, that.

Business and government propaganda is now on a large scale, big-business basis. Words flow like the Mississippi, to make you buy this or vote that, think this or that, conform or refuse to conform. There's a blizzard of deceived literature over the land—over all the lands.

Big business approached the moulding of public opinion clumsily and hesitantly at first. In pre-war days, John D. Archbold, the oil magnate, innocently proposed that his company "buy a good news agency, like the Associated Press." Previously, old Commodore William H. Vanderbilt had explained, "the public be damned!"

IT WAS NOT SO

This remark was a boomerang. At the turn of the century, with Theodore Roosevelt in his furore of trust-busting, business realized that a consuming and loving public could not be ignored. Archbold's faltering suggestion was the beginning of this realization.

The late Ivy Lee, in his magnificent job of rehabilitating John D. Rockefeller after the Trinidad, Colorado, mine troubles in 1913, broke new and high ground for all the "counsellors in public relations" that came along later. The public had Mr. Rockefeller in mind as the somewhat predatory personage of Ida Tarbell's history. That picture was rubbed out, and into the frame stepped the benign and philanthropic which the world knew in Mr. Rockefeller's later years. Other paragraphs of big business got the idea. The publicity era, or propaganda era, if you like, began.

The government got its first big-scale propaganda machine in the World War. Its chief was George Creel, then and now one of the cleverest and most resourceful of newspapermen, made history in the organization and stimulation of public opinion—and public hate, if we are to be realistic. That was what the job called for. Out of the war came the science—not yet an exact science, for it's still young—of building, regimenting and controlling public opinion; let the people rule, but be sure to inform and guide their decisions. Foreign governments frankly operate departments of propaganda. They know that words may be swords, bullets, shrapnel or knock-out drops. Our own government was ankle-deep in hand-outs after the war—now it's up to its neck.

AT LAST HE TALKED

That $500,000 annual press-agent payroll would more than pay all the reporters on the biggest newspaper in the country. The word "reporter," edging in here unbidden, touches off a bit of nostalgia. I remember a crusty old magnate with a waterfall moustache who was adept at making news and trying to bottle it up, making in ding-dong Wall Street battles and what not, and always fending off reporters.

Reporters were out on a lot of shoe leather in those days. They were baffled by the old curmudgeon until once, hunting in a pack, they found his secret elevator, ran it up to his floor and barged in on him. He was spluttering with rage, whereby he lost the engagement, as one of his tormentors goaded him into indiscreet speech. They ripped open a big story, a story which the public was entitled to know and which should have been told.

We still have a free press, and there's no law against any reporter shaking a leg and getting some news if he feels like it. Our government still gives us a field-ey's choice in printing its hand-outs or throwing them away. Which is a reminder of our still happy estate compared with most European countries. There, newspapers are just sheep-herders.

I have an idea that our free press is the one institution which gives us a real edge on Europe, regardless of theories or present actualities of government, and that as long as we have info it our democracy won't go down the chute of absolutism. But it would be a good idea if medical science, busy and creative just now, could find a way of innoculating and immunizing people against the propaganda germ. It is artificially induced and epidemic all over the world.

By a peculiar coincidence, the day that the Premier of Belgium, Paul Van Zeeland, arrived in America on a good will mission was exactly 20 years to a day after the arrival in America of Belgium's war mission.

President Wilson expressed to the mission the solemn determination of America to restore Belgium to "THE SELF-RESPECTING AND RESPECTED NATIONS OF THE WORLD."

That promise was fulfilled—BUT can Belgium feel "SELF-RESPECTING" when she recalls that 20 years afterward she owes us $50,000,000 and has shown no inclination to pay, although many millions in arrears on her payments?

The students of Mount Holyoke College have put a bundle of prophecies in a box to be opened a hundred years from now.

They predict a "NEW KIND OF DEMOCRACY" for America which will be "FREED FROM some of YOUR TRADITIONAL AND TREASURED INDIVIDUALISM" where will be "FREEDOM OF ACTION WITHIN LIMITS CLOSELY PRESCRIBED BY THE GOVERNMENT."

This will be something, but NOT DEMOCRACY. Where there is no INDIVIDUAL LIBERTY there is TYRANNY.

Japan passes with increased momentum into a semi-Fascist dictatorship.

The new Konoye government has outlined a five-year program at a cost of $7,663,000,000 which gives the government almost complete control over all production, over all labor and, of course, over all finance.

This mobilization in time of peace of the resources of an Oriental nation of 100,000,000 population should not escape the eye of our people at Washington.

Our relations with Japan are probably better today than they have been for many years, but in the present explosive frame of mind of all big powers it is well to remember the truth of the old proverb:

"One barking dog sets all the street a barking."

The instinct for life fighting against tremendous odds:

In the deadly darkness of bomb-proof cellars in Bilbao mothers gave birth to babies and nursed them.

In three months under those frightful circumstances about 100 babies have been reared by candlelight, attended by doctors in the same way could.

Nature is so intent on her own work of preserving the species at the expense of the individual that war, plague and famine are of no importance to her.

She is the eternal sower of new life in the wake of the Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse.

Dr. Leland B. Alford, of St. Louis, is busy searching for the "core of intelligence."

The brain is a material substance like an electric wire of dynamo. Intelligence lurks in the brain. Its "core" is the secret of God.

Sitting on a fiverside drive balcony over-looking the Hudson River, New York City, one can look down into a kind of dream-reserve and see Henry Hudson in the HALF-MOON of 1609 sailing up the river with his mouth agape at the various means of transportation 328 years ahead of him.

On the river Old Henry would see sailing craft, ferryboats battleships, submarines and motorboats where he, on his trip up what is now Albany, saw only Indian canoes.

Overhead he would hear the roar of airplanes and on the banks of the river the shrieks of locomotives. On shore he would see automobiles, buses and something that would bring the joy of recognition to his heart—A HORSE dragging along a milk wagon.

And, by the way, it is not generally known that Hudson discovered the river that is named for him while he was trying to find a northeast or northwest route to China for the Dutch East India Company.
